be the future, we will bear aloft forever the standard of our principles." [Renewed applause.]

Scarcely was it known that the issue had been joined before there sprang up, all over this state, opposition to the alliance. The opposition to the alliance had found leaders. Men declared themselves in tavor of Jeffersonian principles. Members of the legislature were threatened with opposition if they did not submit to sacrifice their principles in favor of personalism. South Carolina cancht the contagion, and a nominee of the disgruntled was brought out against the regular democratic nominee, who was an allianceman. Before I had read that issue, before I had read the papers, the governor of this state telegraphed me a request to return to Georgia. He had been my life-long friend, or, rather, since I had been in this state. I wired back that I would done as 8000 as I could. When I saw the issue that had been made, I determined that I could follow no one in opposition to the people. [Cheers.]

Opposition to the alliance continued to grow, and thought I saw signs of a division among the white men of the south, and I wrote an article to the people of Georgia, and not merely for Georgia, but for the people of the country. I believed that underlying the alliance movement were great principles that ought to be advocated and defended, and that the people would recognize the necessity for financial relief.

Not caring to obtrude my personality upon the people of Georgia, I simply signed my articles, "Georgian" Scarcely had that been done when throughout this state there were circulated rumors that the Terminal company had a candidate for the senate. Does anybody in my hearing think that If I had sided against the alliance that it would have been heard in this state that the Terminal company was seeking to force a senator upon the people of Georgia. Applause.]

A voice: No, no.

reminal company was seeking to force a senator upon the people of Georgia? [Applause.]

A voice: No, no.

Mr. Calhoun continuing said:

My opinion then was, and my opinion now is, that this has not been a fight of leaders; that this opposition has not grown from the head downward, but that it has grown from the people upward. [Applause.] Why is it that it was not charged against the opponents of Mr. Grimes, or the opponents of Colonel Stewart, or the opponents of Colonel Bount, and yet everywhere the same issue on the part of the alliance was made that has been made since the senatorial question was brought up.

Now, gentlemen, I will tell you why that issue was made on me. It was for a two-fold purpose. One was to make the people who love Georgia believe that the opposition was manufactured. The other was to make me feel that my interest and the interest entrusted to my care were seriously at state, and to make me held my hands. Thank God that never in all my life have lever yielded one iota of my principles from interest or from fear. [Applause.] The opposition grew and grew until the legislature met; and then it was circulated everywhere that the Terminal company was here with its millions to elect a senator for Georgia. The Terminal company has never, and never shall, if I am a candidate, spend one dollar in my advocacy. [Applause.]

It was said that the alliance paper that had lought your battles was purchased by me. I never have, do not now, and never expect to own a share of the stock. The Terminal company does not own one solitary share of the stock; but I have spent money, I do not deny it. Not in the advocacy of my interest, but to have my articles printed by the thousands and circulated, not only in this state, but throughout the west; and one of the proudest sentinents of my life is that I have heard from the west that the advocacy of my interest, but to have my articles printed by the thousands and circulated and only to addsome votes to the grand democratic victory.

Now, gentlemen, having brushed

[Cheers.]

Now, gentlemen, having brushed away the cobwells that have been woven by the spiders of politics to catch both you and me, let us consider the general conditions that surround this legislature. Let us consider for a moment the general conditions that surround this legislature. Let us consider for a moment the general condition now existing in this country. For a quarter of a century this people and the people of all this country have labored under the burdens of taxation, and labored from a financial policy that no words can sufficiently condeun, both of which are calculated, if sustained, to bring this country, not only to the verge of ruin, but to the verge of revolution, we are rapidly in this country approaching the period that all free governments have approached before, Sparta fell, cultured Athens and

Senator Numally then introduced Mr. Pat Calhoun. He said:

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: I thank you for the honor of presiding over this body on this occasion. It now becomes my duty to introduce to you, if I may say so, a man who, when the principles advocated by the democratic party in Georgia were in doubt, it was left to him to clear the way and give to the people an exposition that satisfied the most uncerdulus of Georgia and the sanished on history. I allude so Patrick Calhoun, of Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. Calhoun arose amidst much applauses.

Mr. Calhoun arose amidst much applauses.

Mr. Calhoun arose amidst much applauses.

Mr. Chairman, Gentlemen of the General Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen: On the General Assembly the Gentlemen of the General Assembly the Gentlemen of the General Assembly that the Gentlemen of the General Assembly, Ladies and Gentlemen: On the General Assembly the Gentlemen of the General Assembly the Gentlemen of the General Assembly the Gentlemen of the General Assemb street merely and grind the stockholders and the bondholders between the upper and the mether millstone. The last six months that has brought such financial distress throughout the country, has caused a loss to the bondholders and stockholders, of the railroad systems of America, of nearly two hundred millions of money. It has fallen heaviest on them. Teil me that the men who have seen a shrinkage in the value of their property of nearly $200,000,000 are not interested in changing this financial condition, are not interested in changing a financial system that allows no bank of issue in the country oxcept national banks, and to them no power toissue currency except on government bonds at 90 cents of their par value, selling at 1.24 in the market, and steadily being retired by the surplus money in the treasury wrung from the toiling masses. (Applause.) The future and the hope of this country, and of the south, lies in this great agricultural movement, uniting in close political and commercial relations the great northwest with the south. The railroads will help you in forming these relations.

Now bear with me one moment while I tell you just two statistical facts. The roads of the contral states north of the Ohio river earn $14,000 a mile gross, and about $4,900 net and do their business at an average of about seven mills per ton per mile, while the railroads in the south-cast on about 1 cent per ton per mile, or 30 per cent more, only earn $4,200 a mile gross, or less gross than the roads in the central northen states earn net. Now, why is that? It is because the great commerce of the country goes to ports north of the Ohio river, and none comes down through the south Atlantic ports and on to the great countries of the world. Now, gestlemen, if we can form close commercial and political union with that section of our common country, we will open that vast region to our finanticatured products, and bring back their productions down through our state to our seaports, and send the former series of the world. My m form the grest work in bringing about this financial reform so necessary to every interest. [Applause.]

If I thought for one moment that the charge that has been made that this financial legislation was purely class legislation in the interest of the farmer, and opposed to other classes, I would not support it. [Applause.] But I believe that every professional man, that every railroad man, that every man engaged in any profession or honorable business, is profoundly interested in having a representative currency based upon the merchandise of the country. [Much applause].

Tell me that antagonisms exist! Tell me that these great instruments of commerce should not be used by the people, for the people, in the promotion of their welfare and prospertry? How, if antagonism exists, is it to be met? Are we to go on fighting, fighting now and fighting tomorrow, and fighting next year? No, but we are to agree upon a common platform that gives equal justice to all, and special privileges to none. [Great cheering.] And agreeing upon that common platform say to the people, and to the railloads, "You must come to it." And, gentlemen of Georgia, I would no more hesitate to ayow that utterance in any tailroad board, with any railroad magnate that exists on earth. [Applause.]

Let me give you an illustration of it. We had in this state a serious contest confined to some of the elements necessary to represent your interests, who have carnestly advocated my election, but I have said to one and all of them that the good of this great reform movement is greater than my personal preferment. [Applause.] If the people of Georgia were to send me to the senate, I would accept it, and I would faithfully and earnestly advocate every principle underlying the Farmers' Alliance platform. [Great cheering.] But I would not do it merely because it was the Farmers' Alliance platform, but because I believe it to be to the interest of every class of American citizens. [Applause.] But, [gentlemen, if this body were to say to me, "You are not the man; we will choose some other standard bearer," I would work as cheerfully in the ranks as I would in the lead. [Applause.] My pen, my tongue, my fortune and my energies are with you, and they will be with you whatever happens. [Applause.]

[Applause.]
I thank you, gentlemen. sincerely for your attention. I would not have occupied the position
I have occupied tonight, and have opened my mouth, or allowed my name to have been used in any manner, shape or form, in connection with this senatorial race, or in connection with this movement, except that I saw, in the way in which I have been attacked, an effort to injure me and the great principles I represent tonight.

Amidst the continued applause which followed, an old gray-haired gentleman arose, and, with much velumence, exclaimed: "The greatest I ever heard in my life."

Judge Hines's Speech. In a few appropriate words Chairman Nun-nally introduced Judge Hines.

Another burst of spontaneous applause, last-grave with flowers and to erect to his memory a living tablet telling the simple story of his glorious deeds.

While all this is true, we cannot sacrifice the principles involved in this uprising of the farmers for any man, however great or however distinguished. The movement is more than any man-nits worth a million men.

Therefore it is that whoever is selected for this high service will be chosen for the principles which he avows and which he will endeavor to have embodied in legislation.

For this reason, gentlemen of the alliance, you cannot affort to elect General Gordon to the United States senate. You endorse the subtreasury plan, and have staked your salvation upon it. In his speech last night he said: "I do not endorse the subtreasury plan. I do not endorse the subtreasury plan. I do not endorse subtreasury plan. You must whip or be whipped. His election means your defeat. General Gordon said further in his speech, that he knew the disease from which the masses of the people were suffering, but that he could offer no remedy. My countrymen, what you want in the United States senate now, more than anything else, is a senator who can offer a remedy for the evils from which you are suffering. That is what you want, and that is what you must have.

To apply a remedy, there must be a clear diagnosis of the disease. Now, what is the disease from which you are suffering? It is the discrimination of national legislation against the farming interests of the country.

This discrimination is affected in the following ways:

1. The protective tariff which earliehes the man-

This discrimination is affected in the following ways:

1. The protective tariff which enriches the manufacturer at the expense of the many.

2. The national banking system which outlaws land as a security for the loan of money.

3. The demonetizing of silver in 1873, and the constant contraction of the currency since 1865, which tends to injure and oppross those who dig and till the ground.

4. High national taxation and consequent extravagance in national expenditure.

5. The heavy exactions levied by transportation companies on the tillers of the soil.

6. The grant of subsidies, bounties and special privileges.

From these sources spring the political melodies of the times. of the times.

Now, what is the remedy? This brings me to a declaration of my political creed. This is what you wish to know tonight. This you shall know. I shall simply enumerate the articles of my political faith, without giving the grounds and reason of my belief. Time will not permit to discuss and defend the political opinions which I entertain.

ion it is constitutional; it is wise and it is practical.

Of course, if any of your leaders, if any one of your representatives or senators who are in your immediate interest in congress, if the distinguished representative from this district, the Hon. L. F. Livingston, or any other man, can discover "something better," and it meets the approval of the alliance, I will support the better plan. But it will be hard to discover any plan that is wiser, simpler or more practical than the "subtreasury plan."

Remember now the object is to increase the currency, to put such increase of currency in circulation, and at the same time to save the farmers from sacrificing their staple crops, by having to put them on the market all at once.

The alliance does not demand strict adherence to details, nor does it demand adherence to the provisions of either the senate or house bill introduced in this congress for carrying into effect the "subtreasury plan." The alliance is not hidebound and narrow. It does demand unfinching advocacy of the principles of the "subtreasury plan" into effect, it is not necessary for the government to build warehouses and to appoint the warehouses, as they are doing, wherever they see fit, or they can avail themselves of the warehouses, as they are doing, wherever they see fit, or they can avail themselves of the warehouses already built for the storage of cotton. There is now enough warehouse room for all the cotton which is grown in this country.

Let the growers of cotton store it in these warehouses, have it weighed and classified, and let them take receipts for the same, showing its weight, classification and market value; and then let the government take his receipt to the treasury of the United States, or to branches of the treasury of the United States, or to branches of the treasury of the United States, or to branches of the treasury of the United States, or to branches of the treasury of the United States, or to branches of the treasury of the United States, or to branches of the treasu quire the warehousemen to sell at stated times, pay the government what was advanced to the larmer, and the balance to the farmer.

Then let the government take the money which it thus gets back on its loans to farmers and use it in defraying the expenses of government. In this way taxation could be reduced or suspended; and this process could go on till the volume of the currency is sufficiently increased to do the business of this great country.

I am fully persuaded in my own mind that the principles of the "subtreasury plan" can be executed by simple and inexpensive machinery.

7. I favor an economical administration of the general government, and oppose the present reckless and extravagant expenditures of public money by congress.

Now, gentlemen of the general assembly, I have willing to stand or fall.

Believing as I do, that the aims of the farmers movement are just; that its measures are wise and patriotic, and that its purposes are holy. I have espoused their cause, and will advocate and defend their principles to the last extremity.

If in your wisdom and by your partiality I am elevated to a seat in this high council of the nation, I shall go there the representative of the whole peophe. I hope that I will not be the narrow partisan of any class or section. I shall look to the general welfare. I shall endeavor to enhance the general prosperity, and shall exert all my power and energy to add to the general happiness. White this is true, it shall be my special purpose to remove from the backs of our farmers the unjust and oppressive burdens under which they are now staggering, and to trusted from agriculture her galling shackles. In conclusion, let me give one word of warning to those members of the general assembly who are alliancemen, and who have been especially entrusted by their brethren to see to the triumph of alliance principles. Victory is now within your grasp. You can succeed. But if, by distrust of your leaders, or by division in your own ranks, or the blandishments of power, or the chican

MEW YORK, November 12.—William Nelson Cromwell, assignee of Decker, Howell & Co., makes the following statement: "Liabilities are between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000, most of which is due to banks and bankers on loans. Assets are largely in excess of the liabilities, Assets are largely in excess of the liabilities, and nearly every loan is well secured by collaterals. The firm delivered to me as part of its assets about $1,000,000 of securities in a box. This goes to show that the failure was not due to a lack of securities, but to the extreme money stringency which prevented it from completing its daily amount of borrowing. In the current management of its business, it was the practice to borrow several millions each day on call, in addition to time loans which it had. The assets of the firm comprise largely what is known as Villard securities, and during the last few days it has been impossible to get money on them. But the securities have the absolute value and merit, vastly above the temporary price made under this abnormal market. Shrewd investors are aware of this and are buying up stocks to put into the vaults and think a rise is sure to follow. If creditors use good judgment and do not act hastily, they will not only be paid in full, but leave a good surplus for the firm.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION AT THE CAP-ITAL CITY CLUB.

The Swift-Stewart Wedding-That of Miss Walker to Mr Pope-Other Society Events and Points About Paople

The reception at the Capital City club in honor of the visiting surgeons last evening, was equal in elegance to the reception given to President Cleveland and his party. Elaborate preparations for the affair had been going on for many weeks, and the result was a scene brilliant and beautiful beyond description.

It was indeed, natural and appropriate that the people of Atlanta should give all their courtesy and free-handed hospitality in the entertaining of such gentlemen. Never were the ciub member or such gentiemen. Never were the camb members more charming and gracious, never did the maids and matrons don lovelier gowns or make themselves more charming than last evening. The blue room, one of the loveliest in the building, was decorated entirely in ferms and pure white chrys-anthemums. The dining room was beautified by palms and brilliant chrysanthemums almost concealing carved buffets and mantels. The large supper table, brilliantly illumined with many waxen tapers in silver candelabra, was simply a bed of gorgeous roses and rare conservatory blossoms, upon which were placed many silver powls and energnes of tropical fruits. The menu of the banquet, so delicious in itself and so daintily served, contained every delicacy of which a bon-vivant could dream. Many small tables in the large banquet room made it an easy matter for all the guests to seat themselves comfortably to enjoy their supper, and the spaciousness of the many apartments made itso that there was no

ABOUT THE GLANDERS.

COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE NESBITT WRITES A LETTER. A Bill in the Legislature to Provide

Fund for Just Such Emergencies
As This.

Mr. Jackson, of Heard, to provide a fund for the treatment of contagious diseases amongst

The fund is to come from the excess, over the salary limit, of the fees arising from the inspection of oils and fertilizers.

The need of just such a fund as this is very forcibly illustrated by the prevalence, to an alarming extent, of glanders in the state; and the utter inability of the commissioner of agriculture, or any other state authority, to assist in preventing the spread of it. In fact, the bill introduced yesterday suggested by Commissioner Nesbitt, and was prompted by this case in point.

Pending the passage and putting into opera-tion of this law, the commissioner has communicated with the governor, asking him to call the attention of the legislature to the prevalence of this disease, in hope the legislature would take immediate action for the relief of

The following letter explains itself, and will be of interest to the farmers:

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, ATLANTA, Ga., November 12, 1890.—Editor Constitution: Please allow me through your columns to warn the farmers of Georgia against the spread of that most malignant disease, "glanders." To enforce this warning, I will repeat what has been recently published by Dr. Forter, state health officer of Florida. He says: "The press of the country announces an epidemic of 'glanders' prevailing in the state of Texas with great fatality, and I would suggest the immediate necessity of exercising great fatality, and I would suggest the immediate necessity of exercising great care in this matter, and watching carefully all avenues by which droves of horses or cattle may enter your section. All horses or cattle coming into your vicinity from Texas should be immediately and carefully inspected before allowing them to be sold. " "Any animal which presents a discharge from the nostrils should be looked upon with suspicion, and carefully guarded from all intercourse with other animals until such time has elapsed as to preclude the possibility of the discharge being caused by this disease."

I have recently had letters mentioning the presence of a similar disease in Georgia, at present confined to the southwestern and middle portion of the state. I have on foot a measure which i trust will stamp out this dread disease in its incipiency but until they can be carried into effect, I would earnestly urge that the farmers exercise the utmost care in keeping all diseased stook separated from the others, and that all pronounced cases be unhesitatingly sacrificed for the good of the remainder.

I would be gratified if the weekly press of the

I would be gratified if the weekly press of the state would copy this article, and thus put the farmers on guard against an insidious and terrible enemy. Respectfully,

R. T. NESHITT, Commissioner of Agricuture.

ABOUT THE CAPITOL. Adjutant General Kell was yesterday apointed for another term to the office which he has filled, and is filling now, with such He will be adjutant general of Georgia for two years more at least, and the Constitu-

TION's announcement will be welcome news to hundreds of Captain Kell's friends all over Georgia. Commissioner Nesbitt yesterday appointed Dr. Oemler, of Savannah, inspector of fertilizers for that district. There is only one vacancy of this nature, of the six in the state, yet to be filled. The oil inspectors hold over, their terms being for four years, and not all commencing at the same time. A bill is to be introduced regulating this term of office of oil inspector, making it the same as that of the inspectors of fertilizers. And still another change of an econom nature is to be made, regulating their salaries as those of the fertilizer inspectors are fixed.

For example, as Commissioner Nesbitt points out, the office in Atlanta pays in the neighborhood of $5,000, and is almost a sine cure, while the office in a smaller town hardly pays the expenses of the inspector.

The salary, Mr. Nesbitt thinks, is too large in some places and not enough in others.

Mr. Sterling Roberts Withdraws. Mr. Sterling Roberts withdrew his applica tion yesterday for the position of assistant cipal keeper of the penitentiary. This will be a surprise to his friends, as his appointment was considered almost a foregone conclusion. Mr. Roberts assigns as a reason that the duties of the office would inevitably conflict with his newspaper duties, and would, therefore, involve a financial sacrifice. He was one of Governor Northen's ablest lieutenants, and s known throughout the length and breadth of the state as one of Georgia's ablest editors. About Fulton County.

Who was the first representative from Fulon county?

It was J. L. Harris.

at Milledgeville.

The next representative, '57 and '58, was John G. Westmoreland.

The county was named by John Collier, senator at that time from DeKalb county, each county having a senator. The bill as it was originally introduced in the senate—read the first time November 23, 1853—left the name of the county blank. When it came up in the senate for a third reading. December 7, 1858, Senator for a third reading, December 7, 1858, Senator John Collier made several amendments, one being to the effect that "the word 'Fulton' be nserted in the blank thereof.'

An Old Question. The first effort Atlanta ever made to get the capitol was away back in 1856, when, after a bill providing for it had been passed by the legislature, it was voted upon by the people. The capitol was Milledgeville.

The ballots were printed "Against Removal" and "For removal to ——."

TALKED IN THE CORRIDORS. In the Kimball house yesterday morning a number of old warriors met by accident and Major Leyden was in the midst of a graphic description of the severel reprimand be had re-ceived from Lieutenant General A. P. Stewart because his troops straggled on the eve of bat-tle, when General Stewart, who at this point joined the party, stepped up and said:

"The man I was after for straggling was Captain Bill Everett, of your battery."

"That's where you made your mistake, gen-"That's where you made your mistake, general," was the reply. "If anybody deserved censure on that occasion, it was I and not brave Bill Everett, who was merely acting under my orders. However, general," continued Major Leyden with a smile, "even though my men did straggle a little, is it not a fact that when

Is a complaint which affects nearly everybody, more or less. It originates in a cold, or succession of colds, combined with impure blood. Disagreeable flow from the nose, tickling in the throat, offensive breath, pain over and between throat, offensive breath, pain over and between the eyes, ringing and bursting noises in the ears, are the most common symptoms. Catarrh is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strikes directly at its cause by removing all impurities from the blood, building up the diseased tissues and giving healthy tone to the whole system. Hundreds of testimonials prove beyond question that a positive cure for catarrh is found in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"For 25 years I have been troubled with catarrh in the head, indigestion and general debility. I concluded to try a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it did me so much good that I continued its use till I have taken five bottles. My health has greatly improved, and I feel like a different woman." Mrs. J. B. Adams, 8 Richmond Street, Newark, N. J.

Dangerous tendencies characterize that very common affection, catarrh in the head. The foul matter dropping into the bronchial tubes or lungs is very liable to lead to bronchitis or consumpion. As catarrh originates in impurities in the blood, local applications can do but little good. blood, local applications can do out little good. The common sense method of treatment is to purify the blood, and for this purpose there is no preparation superior to Hood's Sarsaparilla. The powerful action of this medicine upon the blood expels the scrofulous taint which feeds and sustains the affected membrane.

Tomato Bisque.

From Good Housekeeping.

Many popular soups are made from tomatoes.
One of the most fashionable of these is tomato bisque, a new recipe for which is here given:
One can of tomatoes, or enough fresh ones to equal that amount; one pint of thin sweet cream, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one generous teaspoonful of sugar, one tablespoonful of mineed onion, one tablespoonful of corn starch, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half pint of boiling water, two tablespoonsful of rolled crackers, a pinch of cayenne pepper, and salt to taste. Stew the toma toes with the water and onion for half an hour, then add sugar, salt and pepper. Heat the cream in a double boiler and add the soda. Rub butter and flour to a paste, thin with a little of the hot cream, and stir into the double boiler just as the cream reaches the boiling point. Cook for a few moments till well thickened. Press the tomatoes through a colander, add the thickened cream, stir in the rolled crackers and serve at once. If prepared according to the directions there is no danger of curdling, and the bisque is rich, and delicious. If served at lunch in cups, a teaspoon-readers have seen or read of the Chinese, their curi-

Chinese. My mother was a teacher among them, and by that means we obtained an insight into their ways and heard many of their legends. One of the most fascinating of the latter is that of the origin of the Shui Sin, or sacred lily of China. It runs as follows: In the days of long, long ago

there lived a mandarin and his two sons; the elder f which the legend tells. At last the time came for the old mandarin to be gathered to his father's. After the funeral when the younger son went to the elder for his share of the property, he found that through false representations he had alien ated the father's affection to such an extent tha he had left all to the elder. In answer to the ques-tion of what he should do, the younger was told that nothing remained for him to do but to go to

mit suicide. Sad and despondent he started to follow his brother's advice. After landing on the island he proceeded to prepare for death by first praying to the gods; he then fell asleep and had-ream, in wisch it seemed as if the rocky island was covered with an abundance of bulbs bearing many silvery white flowers with bright golden centers and emiting an exquisite perfume: presently his mother seemed to come to him and told him to arise, gather the flowers and go to the city and sell them, and there were no other flower in bloom at that season. He awoke, and behold, his boat, went to the city and began selling them

In a short time he was wealthy beyond all

We give space to a very interesting com harities of our city-"The Woman's Chrisfian association," and we are sure it will be read by all good women with pleasure and in-the Woman's Christian Association of Atlanta.

Some time in August last I gave a short notice in the Woman's Kingdom of a little girl in the home of the above association, whose mother wished adopted into a Christian family. That notice brought 150 applications for the child, and the mother was not long in selecting a home for her little girl, who is now in a good family eight niles from her mother, whom she visits occasion ally. This notice has also brought me many and varied applications for help in obtaining employ-ment for poor women, homes for children, and mong other things the following pleasing note: * * * Miss E. A., and I was delegate from ou church to the Woman's Foreign Missionary society, which recently convened in your city, and while there we visited the "Christian Home, 19 West Peters street, and were so touched by the ongs of the children, and their sweet manner nat we felt we would like to send them a present and as the winter is coming on we have decided t end them a quilt."

Others have written asking information about the home, its objects, etc. As it is peculiarly coman's work, I have thought a short sketch of he organization, its objects and success will in erest the sisters of the Woman's Kingdom. On the 28th of December, 1885, the Woman's Christian association of Atlanta, (just then orgaized) began the work of this association in the wn as the "Woman's Christian Home.

irst located on Marietta street. A band of Chris tian women, representing the various denominareasury. Among the first names of contributors arolled on the record book of the association are se of the lamented and much beloved Mr. H

W. Grady and his lovely wife. The home has been well sustained by voluntary atributions and partially by a monthly appr oriation from the city council. The work of this name commends itself to every woman in the United States. We have had inmates from New fork, New Jersey, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and many other northern states and from nearly all the southern states. Its benefactions extend to omen and children only. Nine-tenths of these tile ones are the children of deserted, heartoken mothers, whose worthless husbands were rought to degradation by drunkenness. Such nothers cannot leave their little ones at home (if hey had one) and go out to work, nor can they rest at night in caring for them and do a g ays' work the following day. No one will employ woman and allow even one child to come wither. What is she to do? She must either live a us, dishonest life, be on the streets, or the sity must support her. A thousand and more tomes can be obtained in this city by a childless coman who is willing to work.

A woman who is willing to work can get emoyment any day, and the home will not en-purage idleness by taking care of women who would be at work, but will care for the children of such as cannot support them.

This work is nonsectarian, and I ask every Christian woman who reads this to exert herself to raise among her triends at least one dollar for this home. Should this be done our association this home. Should this be done our association would soon have a home of which every woman who bears the name of a Christian would love to honor. Could the record of this home, which is written in heaven above, be read, you would realize the magnitude of the work. Old gray-haired women who have passed their four score years, with no one to love, no one to care for them, who have nothing to hope for this side of the rest of the grave; tired, broken-hearted mothers, helpless little ones have all found shelter, food and raiment here. Poor working girls, many of them country girls, who, innocent iris, many of them country girls, who, innocent the temptations of city life, have come here and ound a home until employment could be ob-fred. This, dear sisters of the Woman's King-m, is the work I ask you to aid. Your unfortu-te friend may share its benefactions. Give us your aid, be it ever so small, and you will one day hear Him say, "Inasmuch as ye did it to one of these little ones, ye did it unto Me."

Lovingly, Mrs. STAINBACK WILSON, President W. C. A., Atlanta, Ga.

More Good Yeast. I had a friend traveling in Europe this summer and whenever she arrived at a new place she would write, "This is certainly the love-liest place on earth," and then go on to describe its beauties. At last she came to Switzerland; from there she wrote, "I shall ver say again I have seen the most beautiful place on earth, for there will always be hing better than the last, and yet-certainly this must be the best."

Now, I thought of my friend the other day when through the mail I received a little box, and on opening it found six of the most beautiful yeast cakes I had ever seen; they were snow white, smooth as a beat biscuit, and cut out evenly as a tea cake. While I admired, I doubted if they were any better than any other yeast cake. When I called my cook and told her one cake must be cut into four even parts and each part was sufficient for one quart of flour, she smiled a very incredulous smile and said she was afraid to try it, but I insisted, and so she, with a doubting heart, went to work. I wish I could describe the result, but I cannot. The bread was just as good as possible; I do not know that it was better than that made by the buttermilk reast, though it was quite as good, and had the advantage over the buttermilk of being very nuch easier made. Now I thought certainly this must be the pest yeast cake in existence, and to its excellency there is a little story attached. They were sent me by a young girl who asked my advice as to what I thought of her offering them for sale; she says: "There was a time when I did not think of this, but since the For though your breeches be of silk, Your knees must kiss the ground!"

Yet, there are occasions, times, circumstances, when gentlemen must be content to remain out in the cold by themselves, and so, as old graybeards are not expected, perchance, in this lovely crowd I doff my cap and bend the knee and sadly ab-

Note—My only apology for mistaking your letter for a lady's must be the it was so well written, I of course thought it way a lady's. EDITRESS.

Miss Quella Peavy, Columbus, Miss.: As so many have asked for cake recipes, will send mine, which is my favorite: French Cream Cake .- One cup sugar, 2 of flour, ½ cup milk, 3 eggs, 2 teaspoonsful baking powders; bake so that the cake will be nearly an inch thick; when done split open and pile up like jelly cake with the crust down. Spread between the layers the following mixture: One pint of boiling milk beat well and sir in while boiling 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoonsful corn starch, 2 eggs, and just before taking off the fire stir ½ teacup of melted butter. Flavor with vanilla. I have two years subscription of "The Ledical Horse Levies", and clean tion of "The Ladies' Home Journal," and also "The Housewife." Would like to exchange them for "Harper's," "Scribner's" or "Peterson's Magazine." Success to the Kingdom.

Miss Jeffie D. Sample, McCall's Creek, Miss.: I am a great lover of flowers, and have a right nice variety, but can't grow them as well as I would like to. I am troubled with my geraniums turning yellow and dropping their foliage in July and they do not get over it until fall. I would like to exchange small magnolia trees or seed with some of the sisters for lilies of the valley, white gladiolus bulbs, rooted fuchsias, or grand duke jesamine or banana root. I will send one or more small trees for any one of these plants. My home is situated on a beautiful creek, where the proud magnolia grows in great profusion in all its beauty and glory. May God bless Aunt Susie and all the readers of this department.

Mrs. A. M. Walker, Carsonville, Ga.: Some weeks since a farmer asked for directions for -making, and in this week's Constitution a sister from Texas ask that some experienced sister will send directions. Though I have been making cheese for family consumption for several years, I consider myself a person of very limited experience in that line, but am willing to tell what I know. Set the night's milk so as to keep sweet; next morning remove the cream and add milk to the fresh morning milk, bring to a temperature of 86 degrees. I do this by setting the can of milk in hot water, stirring while warming; then set in a moderately warm place and add rennet. (I have never used any rennet except Hansen's tablets, which have directions for using in each box.) After stirring in rennet, cover to keep up temperature, and in 40 to 60 minutes the curd will be firm. Cut in checks one to two inches large; let stand a few minutes and cut smaller. Return t can to the hot water and stir with the hand, fro bottom and sides, till the whey comes to 92 degrees. Set aside and thoroughly stir at intervals of half an hour, till the curd will squeak when bitten by your teeth. Now draw off all the whey salt the curd slightly and put in press. My arrangement for pressing cheese is very crude and inexperienced. My cheese hoop is simply a straight tin bucket with the bottom cut out and a few small perferations in the upright. I make a sack of cheesecloth to exactly fit this bucket and place it inside to receive the curd. Over the curd lace a cloth and then a close fitting follow-block. Set this in some vessel to catch the whey which may be pressed out. My first cheeses were pressed with heavy weights. I now use a wooden screw and nut in an old cracker box. After pressing twenty-four hours take out; cut the cloth so as to lap an inch over the top; grease well with butter or lard and keep in a warm place, about 70 to 80 de grees. Turn every day for three weeks. Will be ripe in eight to twelve weeks.

Mrs. N. R. Hill, Vance Station, Ala.: In my last etter I asked for a remedy for rheumatism. I had no idea so many would respond, but we have only to write to the Kingdom and tell our afflictions and troubles when there will be a host of kind and loving hands stretched forth to help us. My pocketbook is not large enough to try all the remedies that have been sent, but trust I may hit upon the right thing and soon be able to dance a jig. I will say to those that are troubled with freckles nd want a beautiful white complexion, just write o Mrs. H. G. Fairchild, Forest, Scott county Miss., for her remedy. I have tried it in my family and am charmed with the result. Mrs. in the southern part of California. Just now our weather is delightful; we have had our first rain, just enough to cool the atmosphere and lay the dust. I wonder how many of THE CONSTITUTION Fairchild is a reliable Christian lady.

Mrs. F. C. Smith, Excelsior, Ark .: I have read me. I fancy that I could almost see you, and the beautiful orange groves, too, that you described so well in your letters. I am in very delicate health; have had a dreadful cough for the last ten months, I sadly fear it will terminate in consumption. Will some of the sisters give me some good remedy that they know will cure me? I have tried so many I almost despair. Note—I give you the best remedy for a cough I was a crafty, grasping man, while the younger was gentle, amiable and generally liked. Their mother had died some time previous to the time have ever seen tried: One pint of honey, one pint of Jamaica rum and a quarter of an ounce of oil of of Jamaica rum and a quarter of an ounce of oil of tar. A teaspoonful three or four times a day; oftener if the cough is troublesome. Try it and let me hear from you.

Mrs. A. Foster: Tunnel Hill. Ga.: I wish to make inquiry as to the whereabouts of my sister's only son, and only living child, John R. Harve'. He has been gone sixteen years. He is a printer and belongs to the printers' union. When last heard from he was in Austin, Texas. I will be

A. S. Hart, Holly Hill, S. C.: Can any of the readers of THE CONSTITUTION give me any infor-mation of John D. Livingston? When last heard from, six or eight years ago, he was in Tallapoosa

Mrs. Jennie Burge, Fort Lupton, Col.: In the Woman's Kingdom of October 14th I find the letter containing part of the old song, "Lord Lovel and there had been a miracle performed while he slept and the island was beautiful with Shui Sin, or liles. He took the advice of his dream and loaded Lady Nancy Bell." Thinking, perhaps, you would like the song complete, I enclose you the music and words and hope they will be of some use to the Kingdom. How sweet all those old songs are. thoughts. Since then it has been the national flower of China, and at New Years you can see the bowls of pebbles and water in which are growing but not one can compare with that ever sacred song, "Home, Sweet Home." I would be glad if any one could give us the words of "The Old Musician's Harp," which is old and very pretty. Many good wishes to the Kingdom and its kind

Miss Maggie A. Boyd, Scott's X Roads, N. C.: Dear sisters, if you wish a nice Lower garden for next season, I will exchange one dozen of the little tubers of cinnamon vine and six papers of flower and half yards of domestic. You to pay postage on the goods, and put your name and postoffice ad-dress on the parcel, so that there will be no mistakes made; also enclose self-addressed en-velope. All lettery of inquiry to contain return

Mrs. M. E. Stokes, Swan Lake, Ark .: How could use without THE ATLANTA CONSTITU TION? it is our most frequent and welcome visitor. I must tell the sisters about a new reme-dy I found in "Farm and Fireside." If your chickens' heads begin to swell and their eyes close, just apply a little sweet oil and turpentine and you will be surprised to see the effect. I have some of the bush lima beans, that has been bearing since July, and still full of blooms and beans, also cinnamon bulbs; I would like to exchange either of them with some of the sisters for seed of the vegetable peach. I will close with many good wishes for THE CONSTITUTION, the kind editres

Mrs. A. H. Meredith, Crawford, Texas: My chickens are diseased with something growing over their eyes and on their bills; it soon turns them blind and when the breaking out gets a over the bill they die. Will some of the sisters kindly tell me what to do for them?

"Weno," Millade, Ala.: I suspect that I am in the wrong box. When I copied that fragment of "Lord Lovell" for The Constitutions, I sent it to woman's department, as being, perhaps, best fitted for it. But now here comes the paper with the piece in print, and a charming introductory by the editresss, in which I am alluded to as "the lady" who wrote it! I am fain to acknowledge, although prodigiously complimented by her mistake, that I feel as though I had unwittingly intruded into a domain set apart entirely for the Mrs. R. E. M., Florence, Ga.: Will the kind ditress or some of the good sisters assist me in ecuring a girl or middle-aged woman to live with me? My health is not good, and as my husband is away from home nearly every day, I am left alone with two small children. A girl from 12 to 17 years of age preferred. Would take her as one of the family. Any one desiring a good home can address as above. I cannot express my admiration for the day. thata, that I feel as though I had unwittingly in-truded into a domain set apart entirely for the ladies—and I an old bache or of many winters Now, I am extremely fond of ladies' society, and feel somewhat of that devotion and loyalty to the dear creatures that Roger Wildrake expressed in his song for his exiled king tion for the dear old Constitution, especially Woman's Kingdom. I feel that I could scarcely keep house without it. Perhaps I will come again with some useful and well-tried recipes.

THE ALABAMA SENATORSHIP. The Claims of Kolb and Pugh Briefly Set

Forth. MONTGOMERY, Ala., November 12 .- [Special. 1-A friend of Colonel Kolb, explaining why the alliance members should unite on him for senator, said:

"It is not because the people love Pugh, Seay and Watts less, but because they are going to vindicate Kolb. Kolb is going to get fifty-five or sixty votes on the first ballot. Seay and Pugh and Watts will come in the order named. I believe Kolb will be nominated on the third or fourth ballot. He is constantly gaining friends and strength. The tide is his way and it can't be turned. It is sweeping everything before it. You've only to watch and weep over the receding billows carrying on their crests the wreck of blasted hopes and corpses of aspiring politicians."

A friend of Senator Pugh said tonight:
"Pugh is all right. He will be nominated on the first ballot. This talk about Seay and Kolb is all bosh. Why, Seay isn't going to get over fifteen votes. Kolb may get thirty, but that is all. Watts will getten. Pugh has seventy-eight pledged votes, and it only takes sixty-five to nominate so you see he beat his seventy-eight pledged votes, and it only takes sixty-five to nominate, so you see he has thirteen more than enough to nominate him."
Seay's friends smile at the claim of Pugh's supporters. They have sounded the situation, they say, and wonder where and how the opposition get the figures estimating Seay's strength. The fight tonight looks anti-Pugh. Still it is hard to foretell the result. The alliance drew first blood in the house to nominate by capturing the temporary organization and by capturing the temporary organization, and also by seating Kolb, representative from Shelby, in the democratic caucus.

THE HALL CASE.

THE JURY NOW ENGAGED IN THE TASK

Of Hearing the Full Evidence in the No Case Against the Dodge

County Attorney. Macon, Ga., November 12 .- [Special.]-The hearing of evidence in the Hall perjury case began this morning. As was stated in THE CONSTITUTION today, the documentary evidence introduced by Acting District Attorney Hardeman yesterday objected to by the defendant's counsel. In this shape the case remained over night This morning the defense made strong arguments against this evidence being admitted, but the objections were overruled. Then the examination of witnesses was begun. The first witness examined was Mr. George Richter, who acted as stenographer during the Hall contempt case. He was put up to swear to the correctness of the reports of that case. Mr. Richter read from his notes.

WHAT HALL SAID. Hall stated positively, so the notes read that he had never given the pegro, Judge Goodwyn, the deeds as claimed, and further that he had no knowledge, whatever, of such

Mr. Richtes's notes were undisputable. After he had been examined, the negro Judge Goodwyn, was put on the stand. GOODWYN SWEARS.

Goodwyn mounted the witness stand with an uneasy air, as though he had before experienced unpleasant things there. He swore positively, however, that Hall had given him the deed, as before stated by him. He then swore that he was told by the people that if he gave it away he "would be mobbed." This threat, he says, frightened him, and he told a different tale at first in consequence The last statement, however, he positively swears is the correct one. He could not give the name of the person who made the threat against him in case he told of the deed. Goodwyn passed through a great deal of cross-examining, but came out of it all with the same tale in regard to the deeds. The next

He stated on the stand today that Goodwyn did give him some papers to keep for him, saying he would call again for them. Hamilton says he was afraid to keep the deeds or his person and carried them to the hotel and put them in the side pocket of Colonel Hall's hand bag. Afterwards he returned for the papers and could not find them and he HASN'T SEEN THEM SINCE.

He told a pretty straight tale as to the papers, explaining minutely how he got them, and in what way he managed to secure access to Hall's valise.

The conclusion of Hamilton's testimony ended the morning session, and court adjourned until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

The negro, Judge Goodwyn, was again put on the stand, but his evidence was, in main, about as that already given.

MACON'S ELECTRIC RAILWAY. The Progressive Loan and Improven

Company Buys It.

Macon, Ga., November 12.—[Special.]—The Progressive Loan and Improvement Company has bought the Macon electric railway from George F. Work. The price paid was $250,000. Mr. Work arrived in Macon this morning to deliver the stock, etc. A meeting of the stockholders of the company was held this afterneon to take formal action in regard to the purchase, and to attend to other minor business. It was agreed that the board of directors should pay for and receive the stock of the railroad company at any price agreed upon by them. It was shown at the meeting that about 1,000 shares of the Progress company stock had not yet been taken, and it was stated that it was necessary to raise more money with which, to pay for the road. Accordingly it was agreed that the entire amount of surplus stock be offered to the present stockholders at 107, which is par value, including 8 per cent interest for eight months. The stock is worth about $115. It is thought the balance of the stock will be placed in time to turn over the money to Mr. Word promptly. With the purchases of the road by the Progress company is of vast importance to Macon. It is probable the stock will be turned over tomorrow or next day.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY IN COBB

oe Wright. a Witness in the Federal Court, Shot Dead While Returning Home— A Mysterious Killing.

MARIETTA, Ga., November 12.-[Special.]-Our quiet community has been considera stirred up over the killing that happen about 10 o'clock last night about one mile from the city on the Paulding road. Joe Wright, an inoffensive white man, living about four miles from Marietta, and near Colonel John O. Gartrel's place, was summoned to appear before the United States cir cuit court on yesterday in a case against one Caleb Goggins of this county. Late in the evening they returned from Atlanta and were met at the train by Wright's wife, and after spending sometime together around town, Goggins, it is said, left for his home, which is in the same immediate neighborhood in which Wright lives.

THE FATAL MEETING. Shortly afterward, Wright and his wife also left for home and, according to Mrs. Wright's testimony, they had proceeded about one mile from town when suddenly some one stepped from behind a tree on the roadside directly in front of them, with pistol in hand, and began firing at Mr. Wright, and continuing until three shots were fired. Wright threw up his hands and exclaimed, "I am shot." He walked a few steps and fell dead. Two of the shots had taken effect, one near the center of the chest, the other near the left groin, Mrs. Wright ran away screaming, which was heard by people living not a great distance away.

THE NEWS OF THE KILLING. The news of the killing was brought to town about 10 o'clock, and Sheriff McLain with a posse went immediately to the scene, but could learn nothing as to who did the killing. After some investigation the officers returned to the city with the dead man's remains.

This morning Coroner Green was notified of the murder, and immediately came to town and summoned a jury of inquest. Public sentiment seemed to be so strong against Goggins that Sheriff McLain thought best to arrest him, which he did and placed him in jail. A negro by the name of Charley Roberts was also arrested and jailed, he having been seen in company with Goggins just before leaving town.

SHOT DEAD IN THE BOAD THE VILLAIN CAUGHT.

WOODARD TRACED FROM GRIFFIN

Where He Is Found with the $1,300 in His Pocket-The Negro Woman Also Along.

THOMSON, Ga., November 12.-[Special.]-Your special in yesterday's paper from Griffin, to the effect that J. W. Woodard had sold cotton belonging to his employer, Mr. Ben Neal, and skipped out with the money, caused the arrest of Woodard while attempting to pass this place this morning.

ON THE TRAIL.

Mr. W. E. Anderson, marshal of Norwood, read the description in yesterday's Constitution and soon afterwards heard that such a party had passed, coming this way, and together with Mr. Charlie Bradshaw, started in pursuit and located him last night, and followed Woodard this morning, getting Mr. Mat Hall, who lives in this county, to assist in making the arrest, which was accomplished in the upper end of Woodard stopped at the store of Mrs. Massengale to get something to eat, and while coming out of the store was arrested. He had the negro woman, Mattie Bankston, with him. He was brought down to the depot and searched by Sheriff Hawes and Mr. Anderson. He had on his person and in a satchel $1,313. He had in the buggy a repeating rifle and a good Smith & Wesson pistol. DENIES HIS GUILT.

Woodard did not deny his identity, but said he was guilty of no crime; that he was a renter of Mr. Neal's and left plenty to pay his rent. He claims that he was not running off, but was simply going over in South Carolina to look at some land his uncle gave

He says the negro woman was his cook, and has been living with him for three years. Mr. H. B. Neal was wired of the arrest of Woodard, and answered: "Hold Woodard and the woman, also the team, until Ilarrive; am coming."

THE SETTLEMENT MADE.

Mr. H. B. Neal arrived here on the fast train at 7 o'clock this evening, and compromised his claim by Woodard paying him $900; but in the meantime Sheriff Hawes received a telegram from W. H. Hartnett, from Atlanta, that he had a warrant and would leave at 11 o'clock for this place. Also Bass Brothers, of Griffin, wired him to hold the prisoner. So he will be held in custody until tomorrow. Neal says that Woodard turned the cotton over to him on Friday and then sold it afterwards. Woodard's statement seems to be untrue.

TONIGHT OF ANTI-GORDON MEM-BERS OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Rumor Has It That Very Important Action Is to Be Taken. Is It to Be the Last?

"The last anti-Gordon caucus to be held by this legislature will be held Thursday night in room 21 of the capitol." That was the significant statement of a very minent alliance member of the legislature made yesterday afternoon.

"What does that mean?" he laughed in reply to the question. "It means that the anti-Gordon people will name the next senator, and that they will give his name to the caucuses i may be necessary to hold after that."

And then he proceeded to quote facts and figures, proving from his point of view, the certainty that their caucus nominee would be the next United States senator. Later THE CONSTITUTION was furnished with a copy for publication of the call to be made today.

"All members of the legislature not favoring the election of General John B. Gordon to the senate, will meet tonight (Thursday night) in room 21, at the capitol. Important business. A full attendance is desired."

The notice says nothing about the object of the meeting.

But rumor has it that the caucus is to con centrate the opposition to Gordon, agreeing upon one man.

It was all the talk about the hotels last The anti-Gordon men claim that they have 118 pledged votes; the Gordon men claim to have 130 pledged. The only way to test the question so far, has been the attendance at the cuses. The highest number attending a Gordon caucus was forty, while ninety-five members have attended the anti-Gordon cau-

The Farmers' Alliance to Obliterate Sectional Lines.

Kansas City, Mo., November 12.—In its weekly issue The Farmers' Advocate, official paper of the Farmers' Alliance, or people's party of Kansas, has the following to say of the future of the party:

We shall at once commence to marshal the hosts of the people for the conflict of 1892. In this great work there are many prejudices to be overcome. Sectional lines must be abolished. Interests which are identical must be brought together and the combined forces of the agricultural and laboring classes must be consolidated against the forces of corporations, monopolies, trusts, syndicates and moneyed aristocrats, who have for years feasted upon the substance of the people. The coming contest will not take place between the northern and southern sections of our country. The interest of the people of the west and south are identical, and their political forces must be consolidated against the power of corporate greed. It has been and is the holy mission of the Farmers' Alliance to suddue the sectional prejudice which has been kept up by professional politicians in the interest of monopoly. It is full time for the this nation to become united.

The Glenn bill merely prohibited this co-education. It did not seek to deay to them any rights or deprive them of any privileges. Based upon the idea that each race was better if allowed to follow along the lines of its own development, without any effort on the part of outsiders to interfere, it sought to prevent any infraction of the policy and sentiments of our people coming from a foreign source.

It is impossible to make them do so, and the colored people of the state should not suffer this loss, on account of the action of those people. It is better for us that they be taught in an institution maintained by the state, in harmony with our ideas, than by those who teach them, if not in words, in practice, doctrines and views which are antagonistic to the best interests of both races. Upon this subject our aim should be equal if not identical rights. Together with others I voted against the resolution taking this fund from the Atlanta university, upon the ground that it was punishing the colored people for an act which we refused to declare illegal. We should not further withhold the fund from them. In the house Mr. Hogan, of Lincoln, brought in a bill that is calculated to awake interest not only among the members of the Georgia legislature, but among the grass-widows and grass widowers of Georgia as well: 1890 at the primary.

tion: I notice in The Journal, of this afternoon, that Mr. Pope, of Oglethorpe has introduced a bill to devote the 1 and once paid to the Atlanta university to the establishment of a college for colored people in this state.

At the last session of the legislature I introduced into the house a bill to establish a state normal college for colored people. Journal of the house, page thirty-one.

Its purpose was to appropriate $25,000, or such other amount as might be necessary, to establish the college and made it subject to the chancellor of the university and appropriated $800 annualty for its support and made all the provisions necessary to carry it fully into effect. The bill was favorably reported by substitute from the educational committee and passed the house by a large vote, 108 to 10. Journal of the house, page 1400.

passed the house by a large vote, 108 to 10. Journal of the house, page 1460.

It failed on the senate. I believe, then, and now, largely because the authorities of the Atlanta university and those under their influence were against it, under the hope that if it should fail the fund would go back to them.

I hope that Mr. Pope's bill will pass. The position of the people of this state and the purpose of the supporters of the bill known as the "Glenn bill" have been greatly misunderstood. While the law, the sentiment and the emphasis of the people of this state have always been and always will be against anything looking to the co-education of the races, there has never been, and will not be, any disposition to deny to its colored citizens a lair chance under the laws in reference to education.

person for mayor, even though he were nominated. I will not knowingly aid in ignoring a statute that is so plain as the one which says: "Councilmen and aldermen of the towns and cities of this state shall be ineligible to any other municipal office in said towns or cities during the term of office for which they were chosen." This language is so simple and the meaning so apparent, "a wayfaring man, though a fool, need not err" in its interpretation. "Ineligible" mans "not capable of being elected;" that is, a councilman or alderman in Georgia is incapable of being elected "to any other municipal office during the term of office for which he was chosen." Therefore not until his term expires can a councilman or alderman be elected to any other municipal office in the city of Atlanta.

This identical question has been decided by the court of appeals of New York of highest judicial authority. That court held that a similar statute in that state "made a supervisor—councilman—ineligible, not merely to the holding, but to an election to hold," any other municipal office during his term.

If did say—I do now say—that the 1890 club will see to it that no present councilman or alderman shall be mayor of Atlanta, because the law forbids it. If necessary the club will test the matter in the courts. And besides, the court referred to, virtually decides that if those who vote for an ineligible eandidate, do so with notice of his disqualification, the next highest candidate will be declared elected.

I can speak for the club and say that it will faithfully abide the nomination, provided the people exercise, their common judgement and nominate an eligible candidate, be he who he may.

May. November 13, 1890. Dr. Turner, From the Fifth. EDITOR CONSTITUTION: During the next two grars, matters of vital importance to Atlanta will some up in our city council. It is important that come up in our city council. It is important that men of sound business qualifications be chosen to represent us. Of those who have been mento represent us. Of those who have been men-tioned to represent the fifth ward, I am sure no citizen will deny the fact that Dr. J. D. Turner is beyond all question the most available man. His business experience is well known, and his char-acter as a citizen beyond dispute. As one who has the interest of Atlanta at heart, I suggest that the fifth ward select him to represent them in our count.

that the fifth ward select him to represent them in our count.

A. D. Adair, for Mayor.

Why should Atlanta not have a mayor representing the manufacturing and business interests?

Atlanta is pra-eminently a city of business, of practical progress, and yet it is now nearly ten years since we have had a mayor taken from active commercial life. Why confine the choice for this high place to a very few, whose long continuance in public office renders them of doubtful eligibility? Better select some man of clear business judgment, solid character, free from all political entanglements, cliques and rings; lething of not office not handicapped by pledges. He should be a man of sturdy qualities, and clean record, thoroughly identified with the growth of Atlanta. Such a man is A. D. Adair.

Patti Rosa.

Patti Rosa comes to DeGiaes next Friday in her new comedy drama "Imp" the work of that great favorite and much lamented dramatist, the late Fred Marsden, and which has been carefully revised by that equally talented playwright, Clay M. Greene. It was written with the view to give the lady an opportunity for the display of her varied talents in their most attractive form. The piot is described as an unusually clever one, in which the scenes and incidents follow cash other in natural sequence, and with climaxes of remarkable power. The interest is not only fully sustained but camulative. While the comedy vein prevails, the serious is also well developed, and gives to it an element of strength that lends consistency and power to all. Songs and dances will be freely interspersed, which will, as usual, be of a high order of merit and quite in keeping with the reputation of the charming artist. Indeed every effect will be added to an already exciting and interesting story to render its production as near perfection as possible. The little star is said to be surrounded by the best comedy company ever engaged in her support. "Imp" will be repeated at the matinee tomorrow, and at night the bill will be changed and "Margery Daw" will be given. The little actress is very popular among our theater-goers and always sure of a warm welcome.

demands picturesque costuming. You wish, if you are a woman, that the eighteenth century styles would return and that you could trip about in the daintiest of quilted skirts, with a squarestyles would return and that you could trip about in the daintiest of quilted skirts, with a square-necked bodice, a Watteau pleat in the back and high-heeled, big buckled shoes that threaten every moment to toppie you over, but yet are so coquettish.

There is the dress in which she first appears—a pale yellow satin skirt, with knee-deep Spanish dounce in front and a wide ruffle of beautiful point lace in the back. The bodice and overdress is of yellow and white brocade, and she carries a white La Tosca stick with a Dresden china handle and a bow of wide yellow ribbon. On her head is a gray felt hat, tipped up in the back with numerous yellow plumes. But it is the wonderful Worth costume in the second act that catches your fancy. Would any one but Worth have attempted the combination of pale green, pale pink and mauve? There is a skirt of the green brocade, opening in the front to show a petitionat of pale pink velvet, trimmed with rows of crystal fringe. A panel of mauve silk, with revers of pink, is set in on one side. The bodice is of green, square-necked, with the front of pink crepe and a wide belt of green, with more of the crystal fringe. At the back there is a bow of mauve ribbon, with long ends extending to the bottom of the skirt. At her throat there is a diamond necklace and her corsage. You are ready to swear that this is the most beautiful gown that your eyes have ever seen, when in she comes, a brilliant red bird in a quilted satin skirt and black and red brocade overdress, with more beautiful lace at throat and wrists. When she dances a rollicking jig, that gives glimpses of dainty lace underskirts, red silk stocking and big-buckled black shoes, your own feet keep time under your seat and you resolve to try those steps the next time John is away. Then there is fitty Clive in a quaint dress of old rose and plink brocade, and Mabel Vane in a pink silk gown, so narrow in the skirt that one wonders how she contrives to walk, and trimmed with a profusion of narrow knife pleating.

One of the many reasons why the theater-going public invariably halls with delight the appear ance of Miss Coghlan as "Peg Woffington," in dead's "Masks and Faces," is because the play

A Democrat.

Governor Hill knows what it takes to make a democrat, and he has admirably summed up the necessary qualifications in his letter regretting that he cannot be present at the banquet in honor of Allen G. Thurman. Governor Hill, after expressing his regrets, says: His services to his country and his party have been conspicuous and important. He holds, few American statesmen have held, the love a esteem of the people. The recipient of many bonors from his party and deserving of the highest, he never forgot that he was but his party's servant. In defeat, as well as in victory, e was always a true democrat, laboring earnestly nd intelligently for his party's best interests For these he made, and was always ready to great personal sacrifices. It was this him to the hearts of all democrats—a reward more lasting than public office and more satisfying than the honors of political power.

The celebration which you and your political associates have arranged for next Thursday will be a fitting expression of the gratitude which all democrats feel for the field Roward and the control of the gratitude which all democrats feel for the "Old Roman," and those of s who will not be able to greet him personally upon that anniversary will be allowed from a dis-tance to wish him many years more of health and happiness. The quality of his democracy is strong and vigorous. It needs no apology; it is its own defense; it is hopeful, wholesome, honest, unselhsh, aggressive and determined. That is why we admire him. Its personification in him long been an inspiration and an example May its influence live long after he has gone, to strengthen and animate the party which he has

Judge Thurman is now, and has long been, one of the most conspicuous democrats in the country. High honors have been his, and he has deserved higher ones, for he is the embodiment of qualities that are old and yet forever new and attractivehonesty, aggressiveness and consistency. His long life is full of lessons for young men. He is gifted with a strong and clear intel lect, but men whose intellects have been as strong and as clear have lived and passed away in comparative obscurity.

Greatness does not consist in intellect alone, but in those qualities that go to make up an honest man and a useful citizen. Judge Thurman is known as the "Old Roman," not because of his intellectual gifts, but because of his honesty, his integrity and his strength of character. He has always had the courage of his convictions. He has never been a "mugwump' in politics or in anything else; he has never compromised his principles, but has always been a straightout, square-toed Jacksonian democrat, and it is for this reason that he has made his mark on his Cold Consolation.

Some of our republican contemporaries are still hugging their off-year theories, and are vainly endeavoring to extract from them comfort in their hour of defeat.

It is cold consolation, for the off year has been a potent factor in the success of political parties in the past. The significance of mch elections is thus set forth by our contemporary. The New Orleans Time

There have been but two political tidal waves since the war, and, instead of these presaging re publican victory, both have been followed by democratic success in the next presidential elec-ion.

In 1874, an off year, the democrats swept the tountry for the first time after the war. The house, which had previously been republican, bedemocratic, and continued so until 1880 Did this off-year victory help the republicans?
On the contrary, it gave the democrats the presidency two years afterward and the senate in three years-a result which seemed impossible previous to the 1874 election.

The second tidal wave came in 1882. The republicans secured control of the house in 1880 with 21 majority. In the off elections of 1882 the people rose against the republican policy and shanged the house to a democratic majority of 4, the most notable anti-administration returns seing in New York and Pennsylvania.

The democrats again carried the presidency in 1884, and put Mr. Cleveland in the white house. And what of the elections of the present off year? Their significance, as we have before chronicled, is plain to the leading republicans of the country. The defeated partisan editors will admit nothing, but farseeing republican newspapers are fearful that the party will go down before a still more sweeping defeat in the next national

The off year is all right, and the demo erats will prove it again in 1892. They are satisfied with its results, and are perfectly willing that the republicans should enjoy all the comfort they can get out of their offyear theories. They are sadly in need of comfort of some kind.

The Revolt in Honduras.

Of all the Central American republic Honduras has for a long time been regarded as the best governed and most progressive. For years past British and American capital has flowed into Honduras for investment, and enterprising southerners, like Imboden with his party of Georgians, and daring speculators like Major Burke of New Orleans, have found homes and profitable amployment in and around Tegucigalpa.

But, if the latest advices are to be relied on, Honduras is in the midst of a revolution. It is said that Tegucigalpa is in a state of siege. Part of the garrison has revolted, and under the leadership of General Sanchese has captured the capitol building and the arsenal. Skirmishing is going on in the streets with great slaughter, and President Bogran has been surrounded in one of the city wards, and will be forced to surrender if outside aid does not arrive. Troops all over the country are marching on the capitol, some to sustain Bogran, and others to oppose him. There is some fear that the revolution will become general in Central America, or that the other republics will proceed to divide and annex Honduras in the event of the fall of Bogran. At present it is not known how the American residents and their interests are faring. They can hardly escape injury, and as Burke, Imboden and other southerners stand high in the favor of the president it is quite possible that their lives will be in danger. Under the circumstances it would be in order to send several United States war vessels to Honduras at once, and land a force strong enough to protect our countrymen. If we are going to have a vigorous foreign policy we should not be caught nap-

Reed or Quay.

Last Sunday in New York the Rev. Heber Newton drew this picture of satan: "The devil does not believe in the glittering generalities of a common law. He believes practical politics. He believes that might makes right, that every man has his price, and that all persons who prate about conscience are indulging in cant. He believes in success."

Dr. Newton may honestly believe that this is a picture of the devil, but it strikingly resembles another fellow, and that fellow is either Tom Reed or Matt Quay. It is a sort of composite photograph of the two

Reed and the Force Bill. Speeker Reed is not now engaged in speaking to any great extent. He seems to be ollowing the example of his gifted coparener Quay, so far as his silence is concerned, but whether he is sawing wood or merely sulking, hobody seems to know. He has escaped the newspaper reporters altogether, although his views on matters and things would be extremely interesting. The deluge that struck the republican party last veek still leaves the great republican a margin of three months in which to carry out his plans and purposes, whatever they may be. His head is still above high-water mark, and for a brief period he is a power for

During the disastrous canvass that h made in behalf of the republican party, Mr. Reed declared, in his tremendous way, that if the force bill were passed, the republicans could depend on twenty-seven additional seats in congress, which would be a gain of fifty-four. It is true that Mr. Reed's canvass had the effect of a cyclone on his party, for wherever he made his appearance, sweeping defeat followed. He opened his campaign at Buffalo, New York, and the democratic nominee for congress received a majority of four hundred in a republican district. Then he spoke in McKinley's district, and then in Joe Cannon's. He went into Iowa, Nebraska, and Kansas, Minnesota, and Michigan, and the result was a republican rout wherever he opened his

It is to be borne in mind, however, that Reed is not one of the men who are humbled by defeat. He is sustained by his intense egotism, and he is still a somewhat dangerous factor in politics. There is no doubt that he will make another effort to compel the senate to pass the force bill, and it may be that he will be assisted in his efforts by such influence as remains to the Harrison administration.

What is to be the result? There is no onger any sectionalism so far as the people of this country are concerned. The north seems to be almost as solidly democratic as the south, and it would be more so under the same circumstances. The prejudices which Reed and his gang sought to revive have been buried under an overwhelming victory of the democratic party, and yet the men who passed the McKinley law, and who threatened the south and the country with the force bill, are still a power for evil.

It need not be said that the republican congress, which has three months more of active life, will regard the recent verdict of the people as a warning not to proceed further with their sectional programme. In a thousand ways, Reed, and the men who follow his lead, have shown that they have no regard for the popular will, and that they do not recognize their responsibility to the

There is no doubt that if the advice of the leading republicans is followed, the senate will pass the force bill. With a president entirely subservient to his own prejudices. such a law would be employed to irritate the south two years from now. We do not believe the senate can be depended on to do the will of such men as Reed. Recent result have shown some of the senators that their future is resting on a very shaky foundation, and the probability is that they will pay some heed to the recorded wishes of the voters of the country.

Famous and Forgotten.

A writer of the day complains that our great men are too easily forgotten. They blaze like meteors, and like meteors are sud denly extinguished.

Sometimes a great man is forgotten in his own lifetime. Especially is this true of journalists. Their fame is of the most transient character. Few of our readers, for instance, know that Robert Winthrop, of Massachusetts, is still living. And yet forty years ago, when Winthrop delivered the oration at the laying of the corner stone of the Washington monument, his speech held spell-bound such men as President Polk, ex-President Tyler, Generals Taylor and Scott, Clay, Webster, Calhoun, Benton, Cass, Buchanan and hundreds of the greatest men of the day. They pronounced the oration equal to the best efforts of Cicero, Demosthe nes, Burke, Pitt, Fox, Sheridan and Patrick Henry. Said Webster to the speaker: "Robert Winthrop, you have outdone us all-you have outdone yourself. Your oration is itself worthy of the grandest monument!"

But how many men of the present generation ever read that speech? How many of them know whether Winthrop is living or dead?

We are forgetting other great men. Their names still linger in our memory, but only in a vague and hazy way. Journalists drop out of sight just as oraators do. Sometimes their success in another line accounts for this, as in the case of Roger A. Pryor. At one time Pryor was considered the most brilliant editorial writer in the south, and his leaders were as eagerly read as were Mr. Grady's editorials. Editor Pryor is forgotten, and his fame is that of a successful lawyer. How many people know that Mr. Graham, of the once popular Graham's Magazine, still lives, a very old man, in New York? What about Hurlbut, Marbi. Swinton and a score of other living journalists who once loomed up as mighty moulders of public opinion? After all, this thing called fame is not worth striving for. Sometimes people sneer at this commercial age, but it is a very sensible age. Material things are very good to have and keep. Dollars and houses and town lots make a man more comfortable, happier and more honest than what is called fame has ever done or ever will do.

There is something in all this for a young man to think about. Somebody has said: "Don't be a clam." It would have been better to put it this way: Don't be a dreamer. Don't work for fame when you have a chance to work for a more solid and enduring reward in the shape of the material elements and factors of our strictly business civilization. That is the way to look at it.

Virginia's Boom.

The Old Dominion, scourged by all the furies of war, robbed by the western portion of her territory, and left exposed to her rapacious creditors, has had a hard time since that gloomy day of Appomattox, a little more than twenty-five years ago.

The progress of Virginia has been painfully slow under the new order of things, but the developments of late years show that the commonwealth is marching on, Land that was offered a few years ago at $3 to $15 an acre has recently sold for $90. New towns have sprung up in the waste places. Roanoke, for instance, is a wonder. From a population of 1,000 seven years ago it has advanced to 19,600, and the increase in the value of real estate is phenomenal. The machine works and other great enterprises have made it a flourishing city.

Speaking of the outlook, The Richmon State says that the industrial booms start with the small towns and cross roads. Then cities like Staunton, Manchester, Lynchburg and Norfolk catch the fever, and development companies attract capital to such places. It is now predicted that by the early spring conservative Richmond, with her population of eighty odd thousand, will catch the booming craze, and take a mighty leap forward.

All this is pleasant to contemplate. The influx of English and northern capital, and the rising enterprises of Virginia are a part of the general prosperity of the south. A new enterprise, a new man, a new dollar in Virginia will be indirectly felt in Georgia. A rivalry in industrial leadership is to be desired rather than discouraged. There is no danger that our ambitious southern communities will inspire each other in the long run. They will gradually settle into their proper places, and pull together for the common good of all.

An Apology to the Press.

It is reported from Washington that Wana maker is weakening in his campaign against southern newspapers, or we might say-democratic newspapers. Now that the election is over, there is very little need of a rigid system of press censorship, and our contemporaries are getting through the mails with very little trouble.

In the attorney general of the postoffice department Mr. Wanamaker has a mild apologist who now declares that he regrets the extreme measures taken against southern newspapers for (so-called) violations of the anti-lottery law. This mild gentleman comes forward and states that, in his opinion, the action of the authorities-Wanamaker and his men-was altogether too hasty; that he would not have recommended that judicial proceedings be instituted against a newspaper unless it was clear that violation of the law was premeditated.

The attorney general is convinced that there was a disposition to obey the law all through the south, and that a word of warning to the papers in question would have been sufficient, and he regrets that harsh measures should have been resorted to. As to the Frank Leslie case, he says: "It was not in the province of the postoffice department to order a prosecution."

Passing over the attorney general's lame apologies in regard to southern newspapers. his admission that Mr. Arkell's publications are beyond the power of the law adds to the infamy of the persecution of southern newspapers under the instructions of the postmaster general. It is a grave admission for an officer of the government to make: but truthful, as the facts will attest.

We have frequently called attention to the great license which Mr. Arkell's publications eemed to enjoy. The bold statement that they are protected by the administration, while other publications are persecuted by it, is a disgrace to the government and a disgrace to the United States.

The administration is indirectly interested in "Frank Leslie's" and other publications of this firm. Wanamaker knew this. He knew that Judge and Frank Leslie's News paper were fighting the battles of the administration. It would not do to stop them from printing lottery advertisements. They were given free course and allowed to do just as they pleased, in defiance of the law which was so rigidly enforced elsewhere.

The thing is infamous and brands the administration with deeper disgrace-if that were possible. This sentiment I know to be almost universal, and is often publicly expressed on the streets. While many of the members are here for the first time, and have not become thoroughly familiar with everything, every one has implicit confidence that they will discharge their duties with credit to themselves and honor to the order, and yet in the face of this universal sentiment of respect and confidence our evening contemporary takes occasion, in an editorial of Tuesday, to offer the legislature a gratuitous insult of the grossest and most impertinent sort by intimating to an intelligent public that the legislature should take to itself the strictures of The Southern Alliance Farmer upon the lying tools of the opposition that is trying to make a split in the alliance. The editorial in The Farmer was fair, open, true and just to all good alliancemen, but it dealt some fearful blows to the evil influences that are working so hard in Atlanta to produce a distrust of the alliance members of the legislature believe that the article was any reflection upon them is an effective way of making ridicule of their intelligence that should be resented.

But here is his plan to deceive the cople whose confidence and esteem are ice and esteem are people whose confidence and esteem are relieved by him greater than all else. It to water the stock 200 per to begin with. It would then pay greater dends than most any business, which we give it a boom for still further watering. This is exactly on a line with the ollocompany, the cotton bagging trust, the monopolies and all other trusts and molies. General Gordon said in his speech but greater the general assembly that "the general assembly that the general assembly that the general assembly that the general assembly that the general assembly the general a olies. General Gordon said in his speech the general assembly that "the crown cruelty of this wrong against me is the rating from me, to some extent, the gradbody of men the world ever saw, whose stand confidence I prize above all earthly hors, a place in whose hearts I covet mon the crown of Cæsars.

You ask, "How else did I six the alliance in the face?" I answer, to stand at the head of the corporation, with such purposes and business policies is ten times wore than slapping the alliance in the face or reliang to stand upon the subtreasury platform with its rotten plank. There is no half ground between right and wrong; and if it is right for a corporation by its injustious business rolls. a corporation by its iniquitous business pcies, by watering its stock, to force the peop who are compelled to purchase its product pay three times its actual value over and about a reasonable profit, then I must contest that am totally unable to distinguish between its and wrong

How any allianceman can supports man who stands at the head of such a corporation, when the very principles and obligation of his order, the best interests of his country, the welfare of his people and the liberties of his posterity depend upon his action, is a mater beyond my conception—passingly strangs.

Governor Gordon has so frequently amounced that all who oppose his election are persecuting him, especially the who heard his Atlanta speech, and claims that he is in perfect accord with the best interests of the farmer, and always he been. I take the liberty of presenting to the public the above thoughts and matters at one of his great financial enterprises, and its best interests. one of his great financial enterprises, and its bevitable effect upon the producers, who main the end, produce the wealth necessary supply the dividends, abmit their report to the executive committee or consideration, and salaries of general officers and their secretaries be reported in the ame manner, was adopted.

On motion the following ladies were appointed a committee on appropriation: Mrs. Jones, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Morris, of Ohio, and Mrs. Rounds, of Illinois.

Mrs. Morse, of Wisconsin, offered as a byaw that article 6 be amended to cover all salries and appropriations.

The executive committee having learned with the highest pleasure that four gentlemen connected with the Atlanta press would wellow the Mational Woman's Christian Temperance Union to this city, it was unanimously decided that the sommittee take pleasure in adding heir names to the programme for Friday yvening, assuring them that had this circumstance been known their names would have tance been known their names would have appeared on the programme previously. They re: Hon. W. A. Hemphill, of THE CONSTITION; Mr. Ed. Evans, of The Prohibitionit; Mr. C. D. Barker, of The Star, and Mr. N. Bennett, of The Journal.

"Noontide hour of prayer" having arrived, he song, "Guide Me, Oh Thou Great Jehorah," was sung, and the meeting adjourned, after prayer by Mrs. Chase, of Arkansas.

This is but the initial meeting of the conention, and of course everything is in an unnished state as yet. The members of the mmittee and the superintendents were busy I the morning and afternoon getting things shape. Nothing definite has been deterined upon as to the measures to be discussed after the convention.

This is Miss Anna Gordon's children's chorus, and it is one of the most touchingly beautiful sights ever witnessed to watch them in their repears in their rehearsals.

The walls of old Trinity never re-echoed with sweeter anthems than these, and the blended melody of these sweet singers rises as a sweet incense to heaven in tehalf of the A Beautiful Medal.

One of the most beautiful medals ever awarded a temperance worker is worn by Mrs. Sallie F. Saul, of this city, formerly of Louis-ville. She was state superintendent of the railroad work for two and a half years, and such railroad work for two and a half years, and such was the appreciation of her work by the railroad men that they had made for her a solid gold medal. It is a scroll with her name engraved on it, and suspended from this by two gold chains, is a perfect medal of a railroad engine under way, in solid gold with a diamond headlight. Suspended to this is a large golden star on which is inscribed "Presented by the Louisville and Nashville shop employes as a token of their esteem and regards."

It is a beautiful tribute to a noble woman who is now state superintendent of evangelistic work.

General Notes. The local committee on reception is at work night and day trying to house the visitors as hey arrive.

There are many ladies among the delegates already arrived whose bearing and general ap-pearance would indicate that they are born Miss Willard is one of the finest parliamentarians that ever presided over a convention in this city of conventions. Her rulings are clear cut and decisive. She has the entire machinery and workings of this mighty order machinery and workings of this mighty order at her ingers' ends, and is a woman of phenomenal executive ability.

All mail for delegates will be forwarded to the reception rooms, in the old capitol, until Friday, when it will be sent to the church.

Considering the fine Italian hand of the average reporter, and the fact that several hundred names prefixed by "Miss" and "Mrs." indiscriminately, it may readily be understood how Mrs. Chapin, of Charleston, should have appeared as "Miss," and Mrs. M. J. Medlock, of this city, should have figured as "Mr. Medlock," in yesterday's report.

Medlock, of this city, should have figured as "Mr. Medlock," in yesterday's report.

All ladies and gentlemen who will sing in the choir any evening during the convention, are requested to send their names to Mrs. Sallie Saul, chairman of the music committee, No. 194 Washington street. It is desired that there be a large choir of singers at every service, and those who will aid in the song service will confer a great favor. Mrs. L. M. Chase, of Little Rock, state president of Arkansas, is stopping with Mrs. F. M. Coker, No. 66 Washington street. The Arkansas delegation will be a strong working team in the convention.

It is understood that at the coming tion a resolution will be offered providing for the establishment of an inebriate asylum by the National Woman's Christain Temperance Union at Indian Springs, the health resort of the southern states.

This idea of an inebriate asylum grew out of an offer made some six weeks ago to the Young Men's Christian Association by Mr. C. N. Kight, assistant general passenger agent of the East Tennessee road, who offered to transport all men dependent upon the association free of charge to Indian Springs and return from any portion of the United States. In addition to this already liberal offer, he proposes to board them free of charge during their stay there.

The association has taken the matter under advisement. To people who know anything of Georgia's history it is needless to say aught of the Indian Spring. The water is the best, in very many respects, that can be found in this country, and the place is especially adapted for the purposes designed by those interested in this special movement.

READ ABOUT Beautiful Suburban Lots

__ AT __

Ormewood Park is a beautifully situated tract of 100 acres just outside of the city limits of Atlanta, one-fourth mile southeast of Grant Park, and one-fourth mile southeast of Grant Park, and one-fourth mile north of the Confederate Veterans' Home. The Metropolitan dummy line runs through the southeast portion of Ormewood park for a distance of one-half mile, making these lots very accessible to the city. Ormewood avenue, sixty feet in width, leads directly from Grant Park through the property. It has been nicely graded its entire width, and affords a beautiful drive to the city. All the lots fronting it are high and level, and are exceedingly choice. Ormewood Park has been subdivided into lots suitable for saburban homes. They are from one-half acre to three acres each, and all front wide and weil graded avenues. It is the object of this company to build up Ormewood Park with attractive hours and establish there the most desirable suburb around the city. The property has all the natural advantages that could be desired. It is elevated, shady, has on it springs and many streams of pure clear water. It is very easy of access, and in going from the heart of the city to Ormewood Park either on the cars or driving, you need not pass a single objectionable feature. This is agreat advantage over other suburban property, and should be taken into consideration by those seeking choice suburban feet. Many nice homes have already been built at forms wood Park and on the adjoining property. Netadly among them the residence of Mr. Harry L. Woodward, at the head of Ormewood Park either on the cars to cost $1,000 or more, we can make this liberal offer: Select your lot and we will require a feath of seath for year let and user owing the money at cost $1,000 or more, we can make this liberal offer: Select your lot and we will require a feath of the lot, This pifer holds good for a short time only, and you make a transcript or improve our property but guarantee to build your house, you can use you feath of the coupany. LIVINGSTON

STIRS UP THE WOODS IN ALA-

He Delivers An Able Address on the Plac of the Alliance in the Democratic MONTGOMERY, Ala., November 12 .- [Spe cial.]—Colonel Livingston spoke yesterday to 20,000 people from every section of Alabama. His speech was the best effort of his life. He had the audience spell-bound, and swayed them from the outburst of applause to tears at will. He demonstrated that alliance measures and alliance efforts were chiefly the cause of the signal victory to the democratic party, and he said the democratic party owed a debt of gratitude to the alliance move. He predicted a sweeping victory for the cause of the people in 1892. He contrasted the alliance platform with the democratic platform, and declared that the success of the one was the assurance of the other.

At the close of his speech, the audience went wild over his closing sentence, which was: "If the alliance people would but stand united, 1892 will find us with a democratic president, a democratic senate, a democratic house and a decent government, of which every citizen will be proud."

For at least thirty minutes after the close of his speech he was occupied in hand-shaking. Everybody pressed to the stand to shake his hand, and many were heard to say that Livingston was the grandest and greatest man in Ex-Governor Watts came up and said: "You do not know me, but your speech was the best I ever heard, and God bless you for it."

I over heard, and God bless you for it."

In introducing Colonel Livingston, Captain Kolb referred to him as "the old warhorse of the alliance," and said he had recently canvassed the state of Kansas for the sole purpose of snowing under that grand old scoundrel, John J. Ingalls." Colonel Livingston spoke as follows:

COLONEL LIVINGSTON'S SPECCH.

Ladies and Gentlemen: Lam glad to be with

Ladies and Gentlemen: I am glad to be with Ladies and Gentiemen: I am glad to be with you Alabamians today. Alabama is one of Georgia's twin daughters. I am a son of Georgia, and I am here looking after this daughter. I am glad to see so many of the good people of Alabama here today. I thank the management of the Southern exposition for having set apart this day as Alliance Day. They can well afford it, too. Who is it that made Alabama what she is? The received is here. These near who dis and dala an answer is here. These men who dig and delve and answer is here. These men who dig and delve and toil in her fields and shops. The growth of the biliance order has been the wonder of the world; its progress has astounded the world. It began in insignificance. It was fathered by insignificant men. I am not surprised at that. There never has been anything great introduced in the world that the masses jumped on except to fight it. That is human nature. The world is always lookhas been anything great introduced in the world that the masses jumped on except to fight it. That is human nature. The world is always looking for great reform movements, but when they come the masses shut their eyes and back their ears, and jump on it with both feet, and try to stamp the life out of it. The necessities for the alliance movement were pressing, and that accounts for its wonderful growth and progress. Necessity is the mother of invention. It is the mother of other things, too. You crowd the rankest coward in the world down in a fence corner and he'll fight like a tiger. The farmers of the country were compelled to organize for the protection of their interests, their homes. They were driven to the last ditch. They saw the black cloud of oppression and poverty and ignorance hanging over their heads, and they were driven to this movement for relief. For twenty years or more they had taken little part id the affairs of the country, or the legislation under which they live. They had about as much to say in the control of the affairs of the country as a man born in Japan and living in China. They were like the man in North Carolina who was a great horse swopper. When the war came on he declared that he was a union man and would not enter the confederate service. When the fight began to warm up and the federal troops were pushing down into North Carolina he went to the swamp where his fine horses were hid out, and got a beautiful young mare, put his best saddle and bridle over her and said he was going to welcome the federal soldiers and make a good horseswap. When he met the soldiers he addressed the captain looked at him a moment and saw his fine mare and said wis mount." He dismounted. "I will take your horse," said the eaptain. He did it. "Now you my old saddle on that old stager there and get up and fall in," said the captain. The poor fellowed obeyed, but asked the captain if he might make a statement. Certaity, said the captain. The poor get of the said, "durn my skin if this ain't the first ti grateful for it. It showed that the people had sympathy for us, and not only that, it showed that the other fellows had an interest in us and we went on taking their medicine.

The farmers had their heads back and their mouths wide open, ready to swallowany sort of a dose. We were bad off. They all admit that the country was in a bad fix. I want to say to the people outside the alliance that you ought to judge us by our works. If we have done more good than harm, then you are a coward or an enemy if you don't stall in and help us. [Applause.] Why not' [A voice. "Talk it to 'em there."] There are many things that we haven't done, but we have done a heap. We have put the people to reading and thinking. I'm not a gambler, but I'll bet there are a thousand men here today who didn't know a tariff from a terrapin two years ago. [Applause and cries of "yes, yes."] There are hundreds and thousands of Christian men and women in this country who are praying for the success of the alliance. We have not only put the people to reading and thinking, but we have put if ire under them and got a move on them. We have moved some in Alabama, but I understand there are some in your state who need a fire under them and a log heap on top to get them started. [Applause.] I now commend you to the middle of the road and beg you to keep it."

The speaker then branched off on the results of the recent congressional elections, and said:

The speaker then branched off on the results of the recent congressional elections, and said:
What brought on that revolution? Cleveland says it was the tariff. We don't blame Grover for that. He daddled the tariff, and the tariff had a part in the victory, no doubt. But who put the people to thinking and studying? The suballiances of this country, north and south and west. Who made the great changes in the political state of the country? The alliance did it. And it certainly did not do it with weak and indifferent men, either. Don't forget that. Some alliancemen had very little part in that great work. Some of you have got your names on the book and that is all. It was about the work of tens of thousands of devoted alliancemen all over the country, whose backbones are not made out of cotton strings. They went into the fight determined on securing their relief. In the last bloody war who stormed the batteries? The year who jumped into the fight first and run fasters? So it is with the alliance and its war against opppression. The speaker then branched off on the results last bloody war who stormed the batteries? The spen who jumped into the fight first and run fastes? So it is with the alliance and its war against opphression.

We mean good to all and ill to none, and I am willing for God to judge us on that line. Some men think, because we have not taken them into the order and given them the password, that the alliance is terrially mean. Let me say there are some on the insule wax oughtn't to have the password, and there are some or the outside to whom I would love to give the password.

There are several difficulties which alliancemen have to fight against. Some of you talk too much. Do less talking and more work. Some men on the outside who would get along better if they would talk less and think more. Ingalis talked too much, and we stamped the feathers off, him. There are some men in Alabama who ought to have had their feathers taken out, but you sidn't do it. The alliance is sometimes blamed for displeasing politicians. The people were suffering and the bosses gave them no relief and what else could they do but displace them. You hired your congressmen, paying them $5,000 per year, and they waited for you to totell them your ideas about what they should do, and when you proposed a remedy they said it was no good. Some have been displaced in other states, and those who go back will be nearer to you hereafter than they have ever been before. We have had to teach the world a lesson. This is a government for the people and it must be administered for the interests of the people. If the politicians are not willing to go on that programme we will have to take the sharp end of the pitchfork to them. The great question of today is, "Who's going to keep house for the, democratic people have the right to control the democratic pople have the right to control the democratic pople have the right to control the democratic pople have the righ we'll accept it. Try us and see. The evils that afflict us come from national legislation and we are going there for relief. If you should lose your pocket-book on these exposition grounds you wouldn't go to Atlants to look for it. We deuand nothing but what is fair and right. I have been taught this lesson all my life. "If you want a thing helf done, send somebody else to do it." I will denounce a wrong to any other class as quick as I would a wrong to the farming class. Let us act so that the lawyers and merchants and doctors and bankers and railroad men will all come in and help us, and then we will get relief and get if quick. Otherwise we will come in and help us, and then we will get relief and get if quick. Otherwise we will have to whip the fight inch by inch, foot by foot, ditch by ditch, and some of us will be dead and buried before we get through fighting. Alliancemen should be conservative, yet aggressive. We can't go slow. We must fight on the old democratic platform, for measures and not men. Alliancemen must sick together. You have been divided in Alabama, and some of you are hung out to dry. A house divided against itself cannot stand. How did the democratic party win a sweeping victory on the 4th of November? It was because democrats all over this broad land stood shoulder to shoulder. You alliancemen of Alabama will never succeed until you stand togather, and if you are not going to stand together you had better quit the business and get out. [Applause.] Don't make a fool of yourself any longer. We must fear the money power. It is now being used to crush out the Alliance movement. It is not the money of this country, for Wall street is about as poor as we are. It is the money powers of Europe. They say our fore-fathers whipped them with bayonets in 1776, and now they will whip us with combined capital.

Here the speaker dwelt at length upon the stronghold that foreign capital has already obtained in this country. He said:

Every statesman, from Thomas Jefferson down to this day, has warned you nothing else. Colonel Livingston's speech was well re-ceived by the crowd, and he closed amid a per-fect storm of applause. Hundreds of wool hats went up in the air, and the crowd surged up and had a regular alliance hand-shaking with Colonel Livingston and Captain Kolb.

A. D. Adair for Mayor.

Why should not Atlanta have a mayor representing the manufacturing and business interests? Atlanta is pre-eminently a city of business—of practical progress—and yet it is now nearly ten years since we have had a mayor taken from active commercial life. Why confine the choice for this high place to a very few, whose long continuance in public office renders them of doubtful eligibility? Better select some man of clear business judgment, solid character, free from all political entanglements, cliques and rings, and let him go into office not handicapped by pledges. He should be a man of sturdy qualities and clean record, thoroughly identified with the growth for Atlanta. Such a man is A.D. Adair.

MAYOR GLENN'S WELCOME. In bidding the delegates and visitors wel-come to Atlanta, Mayor Glenn said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: As mayor of Atlanta, I am happy to meet you on this beautiful day and give you a welcome to our city. We greet you cordially, and tell you that the city is yours for all it is worth. Nature itself has joined with us today, and bathes our friendly greeting to you with a flood of bright sunshine to make it all the

"We recognize no set of men greater than you, and we feel honored by your visit-you who are the toiling bulwarks of the nation, Truly hath the poet spoke:

Whate'er may come, whate'er befall, The farmer he doth feed them all.

The farmer he doth feed them all.

"But, this is mere form. You have already been welcomed to Atlanta and what can I say to make that welcome more substantial. This is an American city, made up of Americans from the north, from the south, east and west. We are always glad to see good people, and in behalf of Atlanta I give you assurance that a cordial welcome is felt for you around every hearthstone; in our homes and in our hearts." [Applause]. layor Glenn then introduced Colonel Page, of Missouri, who responded to Atlanta's welcome.

COLONEL PAGE'S SPEECH.

Colonel Page said: "To me has been assigned a very pleasant and honorable duty—responding to the welcome of Mayor Glenn in behalf of Atlanta. In behalf of this great order I thank you, sir, (turning to Mayor Glenn), for those noble words of welcome you uttered here today.

"I will offer no special eulogiumon the fair

"I will offer no special eulogium on the fair "I will offer no special eulogium on the fair name of Atlanta, your Gate City. She truly needs no word of praise. We all know that she has sprung Phenix-like from the smouldering ruins, the ashes left by Sherman's legions. We all know that it is now the ving spirit of the new south, the pride of all our fair southland.
"We grangers are glad to be with you. We are here to study together the most judicious plans for the upbuilding of our common country; to consult with one another about the methods of our pursuit."

Colonel Page spoke of the agricultural interests of the country, of class legislation and terests of the country, of class legislation and how the working people had to fight against it. He said it was a question that was being felt in Illinois as in Georgia, and it was high time to break the yoke of oppression.

His speech was frequently interrupted by appliance

"To say that Georgia patrons are elated or delighted on this occasion would be but the most feeble expression of hearts throbing with sestacy and pulsating with joy.

"We realize, as a fact, that more distinguished guests have never visited our section, and that none more true to the interests of agriculture will ever be greeted by Georgia larmers.

Words of welcome that will be uttered by our most distinguished men and eloquent speakers, will be so expressive of Georgia hospitality that it would seem useless for me to attempt one word, only to assure you that Beorgia patrons, whose latch string is always on the outside of the door, are fully up, and they will never allow any one to excel them in hospitality to those who come with proper tredentials. 'As patrons of Georgia, we are proud of our

"We have, from the purest motives, invited you to come among our people, and while entwined with the silken chord of our affection, would assure you that in all our numble homes, from east to west, from north to south, through verdant dale, in the green pastures, beside the still waters, among the lowing herds, you will hear naught but tones of welcome and of cheer. [Applause.]
"There's not a sunbeam on the favored side of a Georgia patron's home, but would warm your chilled bones and help you to soon forget the blizzards and gales of the northwest, the mowstorms and ieccles of New England.

We have not demanded a financial policy tending toward centralization or that would give the government control of agriculture.

We have not insisted that the government take charge of and run the gigantic railroads, object, have always felt it a duty to elevate and dignify labor. [Applause.]

Now, brethren and sisters, we are anxious that your first visit to our section shall be a pleasant and profitable one to all.

We are praying and laboring for a noble cause, and while you labor for our mutual interests, we hope you will be bountifully blessed, and therefore urge you to throw your selves permanently under the influence of Geografa's noble women, and pure daughters. serves permanently under the influence of Georgia's noble women and pure daughters, among Georgia patrons on Georgia soil, where heaven's blessings are most liberally dispensed, and help us, not in fighting the battles of any political party, but help us in working out a grand future for a great people in this our own beautiful state of Georgia. [Prolonged applause.]

longed applause.] COLONEL THOMPSON SPEAKS.

Mayor Glenn then introduced Colonel Thompson, of Illinois, who in response to Mr. Kimbrough said: "In behalf of the Patrons of the National Grange I return our manimous vote of thanks for the welcome and the speech way here in the river in here on unanimous vote of thanks for the welcome and the speech you have just given us here on this floor. We are pleased to watch with approving eye the grand strides of this, your magic city. We know something of your boundless resources; of your timber lands, your mineral beds, your broad and fertile fields. We know that you are moving on to reach a brilliant zenith of commercial success. Why, sir, we even recognize the fact that Georgia will some day rival our own good state of Illinois. [Laughter.] Look at your great shipping facilities; look at your crowded wharves and blockaded railway depots.

"We feel that we are not among strangers

"We feel that we are not among strangers here in Atlanta, though we are from afar. We feel that we know you as patrons of husbandry and we see your hospitalities on every side. I want to tell the people of Atlanta that we are glad to be here." glad to be here.

glad to be here."

Mr. Thompson spoke at some length on the work of the farmers, their schooling in the grange and the alliance, and urged steps for gaining better national legislation for the farmers! armers. He made a good speech and was frequently applauded.

The convention then joined in singing "Marching On," Mayor Glenn lending his voice also to swell the loud chorus.

"The farmers have been marching on very rapidly in this state," said Mayor Glenn at the conclusion of the song, introducing Governor Northen to the grangers. Mayor Glenn said he was both a farmer and statesman, and not only that, but a good governor.

GOVERNOE NORTHEN SPEAKS.

Governor Northen delivered an eloquent address of welcome on behalf of the state of dress of Weicome on behalf of the state of Georgia.

Referring to the speech of Mr. Thompson, of Illinois, Governor Northen said:

My friend from Illinois has just said that he was glad to be welcomed to the Georgia that is to be, because he beheld a possible rival to Illinois.

But we welcome you to Georgia as she is, the empire state of the south. We propose to keep her ahead of Illinois.

ahead of Illinois.

Then drawing a comparison between Georgia and Illinois, he continued:
Georgia's leading city was burned to the ground, and it is the grandest city in the south today. Illinois' leading city was burned to the ground, and Mayor Glenn says Atlanta is bigger than Chicago. Illinois has elected a legislature of farmers and Georgia has kent up in that narticular. Georgia Georgia has kept up in that particular. Georgia is up to Illinois in all things, and she is still moving grandly onward.

We love Georgia—we are proud of her. We love hea as she is and we live for her glorious future.

love hea as she is and we live for her glorious future.

We welcome you as farmers of America to come among us, to meet with the Georgia farmers to discuss improved methods in agriculture and to pass legislation that affects agriculture.

We welcome you as American citizens—citizens of the grandest republic the world has ever seen. More than this, we welcome you as brothers—as brother farmers from all the states and territories of this union.

brother farmers from all the states and territories of this union.

Governor Northen dwelt upon the recent unpleasantness, and. as an illustration, told a little story of two school boys who quarreled.

"The next day," he said, "they met, when one of the boys said, "That was yesterday. Johnnie; that was yesterday—let's forget it." Then going on in to their teacher he continued, "That was yesterday—Johnny loves me and I love Johnny. We have forgotten it."

"As brethren in one common country, as brethren in one common cause, I welcome you to Georgia—to Atlanta, and if upon this American continent you can find a people of more spirit, of more energy, of more progressiveness, and a people of more generous hospitality, I would like to know where that city is."

city is."

Speaking of farming in Georgia, Governor Northen said he would like to take the grangers down to his farm and show them how Georgians farmed.

"I can show you ground down there at $3 an acre upon which you can make a larger net income than upon ground in Ohio, Illinois or Wisconsin at $125 an acre. I am selling from my farm, close to which land can be had at $5 and $6 an acre, product that yields larger dividend than farms in Ohio that are held at $200 an acre."

Governor Northen's address was received with enthusiasm.

A VOICE FROM THE KEYSTONE STATE.
Celonel Leonard Rhone, of Pennsylvania, responded to Governor Northen's welcome.
Colonel Rhone said he was not at all disappointed at the hospitable reception extended to the officers and delegates to the National Grange.

Grange.

The delegates, he said, were there from historial New England, from the great middle states and from the El Dorado of the Pacific coast to meet with their brethren in the sunny southland.

He said not only the agricultural prosperity of the country, but the prosperity of the nation itself depended upon the conservatism and intelligence of the agricultural interests. Colonel Rhone then referred to the organization of the Patrons of Husbandry, and the objects of the organization, "It is not sectional nor mercenary," he said, "but the members are bound together in bonds of fraternity and love to work the prosperity and further the interests of agriculture in the nation."

Not only America, he said, was interested in American agriculture, but the eyes of the in American agriculture, but the eyes of the world were upon it, on account of the great export of agricultural products from this country. It was the exports of agricultural products that maintained the balance of trade in the favor of the United States.

Colonel Rhone concluded by saying that the members of the grange could not but feel that the south was in full sympathy with the farmers, by the hearty reception they had been given.

should be organized as it was just at the close of the war.

"It bridged the bloody chasm," he said. "The swords of the farmers were beaten into plowshares through its teachings of fraternity."

The grange now was a fixed institution in the land. The flag waved in every state and territory in the union.

"More than one hundred thousand noble women are enlisted in its ranks, wielding a mighty power in the social and intellectual progress of the country. To educate the agricultural classes and bring them to a higher knowledge of their duties and responsibilities as American men and women, was one of the cardinal principles of the order."

Colonel Hawkins gave some interesting figures showing the vast importance of the agricultural interests of the country. He said he mentioned these statistics to show that America was a great agricultural section, he said, and he extended to the delegates a hearty invitation to pitch their tents here and help develop Georgia's rich resources.

Hon. Alpha Messer, of Vermont, responded

OTHER SPEAKERS.

Hon' Alpha Messer, of Vermont, responded to Colonel Hawkin's welcome in a very appropriate manner.

Among other things he said he was rejoiced that the time had come when Vermont could come to Georgia or Georgia could go to Vermont and receive the same welcome as Georgia would extend to Alabama or Vermont to Massachusetts.

Governor Gordon was introduced and was received with enthusiasm. He made a short but eloquent speech, extending a patriotic welcome to the grangers.

Colonel J. H. Brigham responded to Governor Gordon on behalf of the National grange.

Colonel Brigham's speech, which was greeted with great applause, closed the public session at the capitol.

master, delivered his annual address, which reviews at length the condition of the order, and shows that the year just ending is the most successful since 1874.

The report of the lecturer, Hon. Mortimer Whitehead, of New Jersey, dwelt upon the work in the lecture field, the distribution of grange literature and the application of the educational features of the order, notably in better farming, matters of business and its influence for good upon all political parties. Called attention to the meagerness of the appropriations for the department of agriculture in comparison with other governmental departments.

The secretary's, Dr. John Trimble, one of the founders of the order, report shows the organization of 377 new granges, or double that of the previous year; the recrganization of a large number of dormant granges, and also showed that the revenues of the order that upwards of 40,000 printed documents were distributed through his office.

About 27,000 granges have been established since the foundation of the order in 1866.

Colonell Joseph H. Nesbit, a Veteran Journalist, Passes Away.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., November 12.—
[Special.]—Colomel Joseph H. Nesbit, recently of the editorial management of The Chronicle here, died at his home in this city at 11 o'clock last night, and his remains were laid to rest this evening in the city cemetery.

Though educated as a physician, Colonel Nesbit chose journalismas his profession more than forty years ago, and for nearly half a century his work sparkled in the old Federal Union, and afterwards in The Union Recorder. He was an elegant writer, of conservative views, and was the originator of the "Georgia column" of abbreviated news.

Though the latter part of his life was shadowed by an inflexible enemy, still he maintained to the end a splendid constitution and an exhaustless flow of laconic expression.

They Will Be Held Until the Arrival of Witnesses.

MARIETTA, Ga., November 12.—[Special.]—
The three men arrested today and lodged in jail for the robbery committed in Fulton county, gives their names as Will Barber, Ed Pierce, of Columbus, Ga., and John Dickerson, of Chattanooga.

They, however, tell conflicting tales about where they are from.

When first arrested they told Sheriff McLain they were from Atlanta. They will be held until Mrs. Heard or Mrs. Hilderbrand, from Fulton county, comes to identify them.

Against Plece Work.

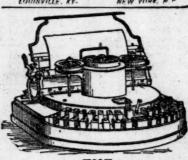

Marietta, Ga., November 12.—[Special.]—
The strike by the polishers of the American Marble works of this place, is still on. They seem determined in their purpose not to go to work until the managers go back to the old rules, paying by the day, instead of the new scale of prices paying by the piece.

Private Wire Telegram to Youngblood & Haas. CHICAGO, November 12.—2:15 p. m.—A better feeling prevailed today in grain as well as stocks. The bears, who have sold freely on the panicky condition of the stock market in New York and Lon-don, covered freely at the opening, as stocks showed considerable improvement. Ordinarily, the fluctuations in stocks are not noticed by the grain traders, but the late wild market affected money rates, and grain was affected thereby. After the rush was over, wheat sold down about ic. per bushel, railying towards the close half way.

Bradstreet's Weekly shows an increase in stocks of wheat east of the Rockies of over 3,365,000 bushels. Cables were steady. Closing Liverpool calls were \(\frac{1}{4}\)d up in futures and unchanged on spot. Considering the general shaking up the financial world has had the last few days, wheat has held its over telerable weil. Do not see anything in the own tolerably weil. Do not see anything in the situation of moment to note. The crowd are passive, and on the defensive, if anything. One or two heavy speculators were buying corn today, and toward the close outside orders were quite

THE STOCK MARKET. The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, November 12.—The stock market today showed a materially better feeling, both in the street and outside, and there was a most gratifying confidence displayed that not only was the worst now over, but that the improvement will be quick and sharp. The action of the clearing house committee in coming to the relief of the banks in difficulty was the means of restoring the conf dence of many, while the improvement in the situation abroad was also a powerful factor to that end. Not only were the active stocks much higher all day, but the inactive specialties which yesterday could not find buyers at any price, today were taken at constantly advancing figures, and the heavy slump in those shares was in a great measure made up. Liquidation in Villards is now believed to have marked the culmination of the o force complete liquidation in the street, stocks had resisted the force applied for a much longer time than any other group of stocks on the list. The impression is now that while the situation has been changed for the better and the Improvement in the condition of affairs will be followed by higher prices all along the line. There were still rumors of further troubles in financial circles, and the North River bank went into the hands of an examiner late in the day, though the fact was not made known until after the close of business. Foreigners were heavy buyers all day long, and transactions for foreign account were so large that the suspicion that the late sales for London were for the short account was openly expressed. Loaning rates for stocks have been wery high and the inquiry has been very urgent, which would go far to give color to the suspicton. Money was still tight at the exchange, and a premium of 18 per cent was exacted for use over the day, while it was believed that the banks were loaning to their customers on satisfactory collat-trals at rates even lower than the legal figure. Buying was throughout of a most confident char-acter and reflected an easier feeling, both in money and as to the general situation. The re-port that Gould had acquired control of Union Pacific was used for all it was worth, but that stock showed no response to the story, and today was only fairly active and moved over a comparatively narrow range. There were reports that the North American company was in trouble, and while the officers announced that they had tided over their engagements that stock was sold beavily, and while taken freely failed to advance with the remainder of the list, and was especially sluggish in comparison with Northern Pacific. Transactions in it, however, were on an enormous scale and aggregated about one-quarter of the total business done in all securities. The general list was very feverish, though there was an almost continuous advance in prices from the opening to the close. Early London figures showed again a marked improvement over ours of last night, and we followed with advance of from 1 to 3 per cent, and although selling was very heavy in early trading, the demand was such that the list failed to go much under the opening. The principal ad-verse influence at the time was sales for the acsount of suspended firms, but even this was suc pessfully overcome toward 11 o'clock. Northern Pacific took the lead immediately in the upward movement, and before noon the entire list followed, placing prices on a materially higher level.

The gains extended to everything traded in, and fluctuations in a few of the specialties attracted considerable attention. Pullman dropped to 168, the lowest price for a long time, but recovered at Other movements were on a smaller scale, but sufficiently large to cause a recovery of most of the losses of yesterday. The market be-came much more settled in the afternoon and parative dullness was seen at times in the list. They were not of long duration, however, and the buying movement took on increased force toward the end of the session, and the close was active and very strong at about the highest prices of the day. Final advances are almost invariably for material amounts, gain of fractions being the ex-ception. Northern Pacific preferred is up 7 per cent, common 2%, Wheeling and Lake Erie pre-ferred 4, common 1%, St. Paul 3%, Burlington and Quincy 3½, Sugar Refineries and Cleveland, Chi-cago, Cincinnati and St. Louis 3½, Union Pacific 3%, Atchison 2½, Bock Island 2%, Missouri Pacific 2%. New York Central 2½, Western Union 2¼ and others smaller amounts. Sales of listed 584,000, others smaller amounts. Sales of listed unlisted 35,000 sharcs.

NEW YORK, November 12, 3:15 p. m.—The action of the clearing house seems to have allayed all fear of a money stringency and considerably improved the general feeling. There were a few small failures on change, but no weighty interests were involved, and it is thought that the houses that have stood the strain so far are sufficiently strong to be considered out of danger. There was a steady outpour of Northern Pacific and North American stocks on the liquidation of the loans of Messrs. Decker, Howell & Co., but the offerings found ready takers, especially of the Northern Pacific, and that at advancing prices. The North American showed a weak front on stories that the heavy losses occasioned by the sharp declines in Northern Pacific would fall principally on it. It is stated that the enormous amount of these stocks being carried by Decker, Howell & Co., were for account of the North American company, and that the assets of this North American company were pledged as collaterals. If this he true these assets have now been slaughtered, and the balance which will remain for the North American company will probably look nitiably small. The balance which will remain for the North American company will probably look pitiably small. The general list has developed considerable strength, and on all sides the opinion is heard that the worst is over. Stocks are again a purchase and for very much higher prices, and although it is hardly to be hoped that the street will recover so quickly from the frightful losses which the last few weeks have brought, we believe in a gradually hardening market and very much better times to come. Money ruled decidedly stringent early in the day, loaning as high as 3-16 per cent commission and interest, but in the final trades loaned dewn below 6 per cent.

Cotton has sympathized about 8 @9 points, notwithstanding a decline of 2@3-64d in Liverpool. The weakness abroad, our cables inform us, was entirely due to the report that Messrs. Neill Bros. estimate of the crop was 8,000,000 minimum. The firmer feeling in this market was due also in a measure to a belief that the grade difference will this evening be reversed to such an extent as to practically prohibit the delivery of low grade cotton on contracts, thus rendering them much more valuable. SUPREME COURT

DECISIONS RENDERED MONDAY

Reported for The Constitution by Peeples and Stevens, Reporters of the Court.

City Council of Augusta v. Lombard. Practice in Supreme Court.

Bleckley, C. J.—Where the action is against one defendant only, a writ of error will lie to a judgment overruling a general demurrer to the declaration, although the case is still pending in the court below. 83 Ga. 207; code, 8250. §4250. Motion to dismiss writ of error denied. The writ of error was then withdrawn.

John S. Davidson, for plaintiff in error.

Mandell et al. v. Fulcher, administrator. Estates. Administrators. Evidence. Title. Deeds. Redemption. Levy. Trusts. Charge of court. Husband and wife. Tax. Practice. Before Judge Roney. Richmond su-of court. Husband and wife. Tax. Fractice. Before Judge Roney. Richmond superior court.

Blandford, J.—1. The question being whether certain lands which the administrator held were assets of his intestate and therefore liable for the payment of the debts of the latter, or whether they were first liable for the payment of debts contracted by his wife, the administrator contending that his intestate took the land by inheritance from her, and that at the time of her death the property was charged by the payment of debts due by her to the administrator and others; and the administrator having testified that he was the owner af a note signed by her and his intestate which had been lost, and having shown by other witnesses that they had seen such a note in his hands and that the paper presented was a true copy, in substance, of the original which was in the handwriting of the intestate and his wife, the copy was admissible in evidence.

2. Touching certain issues in the case, particularly as to the amount of money that might be due to the intestate's wife to the ad-ministrator, a sheriff's deed conveying a large body of land, including that in question, to the body of land, including that in question, to the administrator after sale under executions for state and county taxes for several years against the intestate as trustee, and a subsequent deed from the administrator to his intestate's wife conveying this land, were admissible in ovi-from the administrator to his intestate's wife conveying this land, were admissible in ovidence; they being offered to show title to this land in the wife, and it being admitted by the administrator that this was the title on which he relied, and that his intestate had never been the trustee of the property under any written appointment. Whether or not the levy and sale were void for excess, they were recognized as correct by the wife, who owned the land in part at least; and whether her purchase from the administrator amounted to a redemption need not be considered.

3. A note written by a former attorney of the wife, to the effect that she wished to borrow money on the land, was objectionable as sayings of a third person unconnected with this case, it not appearing that he had any authority to write such a note.

4. Requests to charge which were inapplicable, immaterial or unsupported by evidence, were properly denied.

new trial, though it might not have rendered the same verdict.

2. It appearing that the plaintiff was absent from her home when the fire began, for caus-ing which she brought sult, and it not appear-ing that she had any part or lot in it, a ground for new trial that the jury failed to consider the contributory negligence on her part is not tenable.

superior court.
Simmons, J.-1. A sale of land by one to Simmons, J.—1. A sale of land by one to whom it was devised with permission to him to use it without charge for waste so long as he should live, not subject, bowever, to his debts or contracts "nor to be even rented by him, and after his death then share and share slike to his children, and should any child or children of his be dead at the time of his death, their issue to take the share such dead child or children would have taken had they been alive, in simple fee," passed only an estate for his life; and the purchaser was not entitled, as against the remaindermen, to be paid for any permanent improvements he estate for his life; and the purchaser was not entitled, as against the remaindermen, to be paid for any permanent improvements he made upon the land, except as a set-off against mensne profits, although he was a bona fide purchaser and thought he was buying a fee simple title. Only legal and not equitable rights against him being invoked, his prayer for decree that the land be sold and the fund thereby realized be equitably distributed between the remaindermen and himself, could not be granted, although the improvements he made largely enhanced the value of the property. 75 Ga. 554.

2. None of the plaintiffs having attained majority more than seven years before bringing this suit, and the life tenant having died in January, 1888, the defendant had no title by prescription. 83 Ga. 781, 81 Ga. 721.

3. An order passed in 1803 by the judge of the superior court for sale of land and reinvestment of the proceeds, on the petition of the life tenant in the character of trustee, stating that "this land was devised to him for life with remainder over in fee to the petitioner in trust for the children of petitioner," was invalid as against the remaindermen for want of jurisdiction; the will showing no trust created in favor of the life tenant or his children, and although the life tenant was therein appointed one of the executors, his application not being in that capacity for leave to sell to pay debts or for distribution. 75 Ga. 436; 81 Ga. 359. McGowan v. Lufburrow, 82 Ga. 523, and Blake v. Black, 84 Ga. 392 (in press), distinguished.

Bell & Wade and W. Hobby for plaintiff in T. H. Potter, contra.

Belding v. Johnson. Torts. Negligence. Damages. Before Judge Van Epps. City court of Atlanta.
Simons, J.—The suit being by a widow against a barkeeper for damages for the homicide of her husband, who was killed in the defendant's bar-room, and it being alleged that he sold liquor to the deceased and his slayer in the forenoon, and that the quarrel between these two then originated in regard to a wager they had made, but the homicide not having occurred until the afternoon, when the deceased again entered the bar-room, not as a customer or guest, but to obtain the watch he had wagered to the slayer, the defendant cannot be held liable because he furnished liquor to the slayer when drunk and failed to protect the deceased against him. Acts 1887, p. 45; Code §§3072-3, 120 Penn. St. 579, distinguished. Judgment affirmed. T. P. Westmoreland and L. B. Austin, Jr., by brief, for plaintiff. Arnold & Arnold, for defendant.

To the People of Atlanta.

The Atlanta branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has been reorganized under the name of the Atlanta Humane Society. A reliable paid agent has been employed, whose duty it is to follow up all cases of cruelty reported. The society proposes to actively and zealously follow out the course it has marked out for itself, and, though no officer but the agent will receive a salary, its affairs will be conducted on. for itself, and, though no officer but the agent willreceive a salary, its affairs will be conducted on a strictly business basis. An office will be kept open, and all complaints promptly investigated.
For these purposes it requires funds in a moderate amount, and for these funds it depends upon the humane and fair minded residents of the city.
We appeal to them in behalf of all over-worked and cruelly-treated childron—whose care will be part of the society's work in its present form—of all overloaded, overdriven, starved, bruised, lame and maltreated animals, many of whom are daily seen on our streets, and who are helpless to complain of their wrongs, and we ask them to aid this society and make it popular and efficient. The fee for membership is $\frac{1}{2}$ per year. Let all who will help send their names, addresses and contributions to either of the undersigned, and they will be placed upon the society's roll and duly credited with the sum given. We extend to all an invitation to attend the meeting to be held in the parlors of the Young Men's Library, on Decatur street, Tuesday, November 8th, at 3:30 o'clock
p. m., and assist in the election of officers and the preparation for immediate operations. Ladies

Insurance Against Disease. Insurance Against Disease.

In certain instances there have been arrangements made between a physician and the head of a family that a fixed amount should be paid for each day the various members continued in good health. But should sickness enter the household, the physician's usual stipend was discontinued. Such an agreement is founded on common sense, for we don't want to be made well, we want to keep well. There is a great deal of unnecessary sickness resulting from a want of careful attention to bodily requirements. Kep the blood pure, keep the ing from a want of careful attention to bodily requirements. K ep the blood pure, keep the functional habits of the body regular, counteract the effects of exposure by always having a bottle of Dr. John Bull's Sarsaparilla in the household, and using it in anticipation of an attack of illness, or when the very first symptoms are manifest. Disease will not trouble you if you will head this good advice. It is an excellent preventive of disease and decay, as well as a safe cure.—Marion Banner.

POND'S EXTRACT tor Muscular Rheumatism

WHAT THE DOCTOR SAYS:

A PROMINENT NEW YORK PHY-SICIAN GIVES THIS ADVICE FOR THE CURE OF MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM:

"Be regular in your habits, eat and drink only what you need. If the intestinal action is sluggish take a course of cathartics or some form of diuretic water to carry off the wastes of the body through the kidneys. Have the painful muscles rubbed thoroughly, frequently and fervently, using some soothing lotion. I like POND'S EXTRACT for such conditions, and it will. promptly take out the soreness."

WHAT THE PATIENT SAYS:

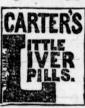

" My wife has been afflicted with the rheumatism for the past five weeks, and after using every known liniment, your POND'S EXTRACT came and we rejoice to say it is helping her very much."

GOLD IN THE EARTH

An Atlanta Company Interested in Mining

Property.

GRANNY CREEK, Famin County, Ga., November 10.—[Special.]—As directed, I have entered this mountainous region, crossed the Blue Ridge at an altitude of 2,300 feet, forded the Cartreay and other rivers, to furnish THE CONSTITUTION'S readers with information relative to the gold mines of this section, and here I am. And here is the old Lovingood mine, which was known of and worked as long ago as 1840 by its then owner, for whom it was ago as 1840 by its then owner, for wholm it was named as above, and who, with the old-fashioned "Long Tom" washed out over $10,000 in nuggets in a few years. Subsequently it was owned by Governor McDonald, and up to the time of his death it was worked successfully. Since the war it has been worked more or less in a crude way by the use of the "Long Tom," or simply by washing in a pan, or what is known as placer mining.

Having heard of recent rich discoveries at this mine, I came here to investigate, and find that the report is fully sustained, and that this mine is likely to prove a bonanza to its owners, who, by the way, are Atlanta men, Captain Dave Wylie, Bob Mann, R. M. Farrar, Hon. Jim O'Neil, and perhaps others, who have organized under the name of the Piedmont Consolidated Gold Mining Company, of which Captain D. G. Wylie is the president. I was so fortunate as to meet him here with a noted English mineralogist and mining engineer, Professor J. D. Caldon, and from him I got information not otherwise obtains ble, and saw the mine and the experimental work that was being carried on, but I will first describe the location and the surroundings.

On the east side of the Blue Ridge, twenty-two miles from Ellijay, there is a small On the east side of the Biue Ridge, twentytwo miles from Ellijay, there is a small mountain, or big hill, known as Granny hill.
Around this hill are other higher ones—the John Dick mountains, Stock hill, etc. And Granny hill is now believed to be a veritable mountain of gold; that is, it is intersected with rich veins of gold-bearing quartz, two of which veins have been lately located running through the hill from southwest to northeast. I saw the veins, saw the rock taken out, had it broken with a hammer and powdered up in a cast iron mortar; saw the rock thus powdered, washed out in a pan, and saw the fine gold that was left, and from four pounds of the rough rock, in which I could not see anything, there came a half penny weight of gold, worth, say, 40 cents. Another smaller piece weighing two and a half pounds from the same way, and the result was 30 cents worth. This would be at the rate of over 10 cents to the pound of quartz, or say $200 to the ton; and this ore can be mined and worked in a stamp mill for less than 50 cents a ton, so I am informed by Professor Caldon. For the past fifty years these veins have been looked for. One man named Lawhon, from Lumpkin county, run a large tunnel into the side of the hill, and came within ten feet of one of the veins lately discovered. Had he run a little to the left he would have struck it and been rich, as it was the expense of the search and the failure to find it made him poor. Granny hill is well situated for successful work, being surrounded by large streams of water, east by Granny creek, south by Eating creek, both of which enter into Noontootley creek, on the west side, and the latter empties into Toccoa river, near by, all of them having sufficient force and fall to carry off the refuse and tallings from the sluices used in washing out the gold. At present the water used is carried from Granny creek in an open ditch around the base of Granny hill into a reservoir, from where it is carried in pipes to any lower point, and used to wash off the surface dirt around and below the base of the hill. I saw less than fifteen cubic yards of dirt washed out, part of it old tailings, part original dirt; the result a slate bottom from two to six feet down—in the placer mining operations the gold is found in the clay or gravel deposit overlaying this slate foundation. I saw a miner pick up a nugget while shoveling dirt out of an old gulch. It weighed about four or five pennyweights. This gold found on these bottoms must certainly be carried there from the rich veins that are in Granny hill. In addition to the gold, this is a fine country for apples and honey; there are some stills also. Your readers will understand what I mean. I will go from here to the "Lucky Eight" mine, in Gilmer county, and give my impressions as to it. Bob Mann and Jim O'Neil are, I believe, old bachelors. Give the young ladies a hint that they are likely to be very rich and should be looked after.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

C. O. Lepper, Druggist, Fort Wayne, Ind., writes: "My little sister, four years of age, was so ill from brouchitis that we had almost given up hope of her recovery. Our family physician, a skilful man and of large experiphysician, a skilful man and of large experience, pronounced it useless to give her any more medicine, saying he had done all it was possible to do, and we must prepare for the worst. As a last resort, we determined to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I can truly say, with most happy results. After taking a few doses she seemed to breathe easier, and, within a week, was out of danger. We continued giving the Pectoral until satisfied she was entirely well. This indisputable evidence of the great merit of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has given me unbounded con dence in the preparation, and I recommend it to my customers, knowing it cannot disap-point them." "Ayer's Cherry Pectoral cured me of a bad cough and my partner of bronchitis. I know of numerous cases in which this preparation has proved very beneficial in families of Young Children, so that the medicine is known among them as 'the consoler of the afflicted.'"-Jaime Rufus Vidal, San Cristobel, San Domingo.

"A short time ago, I was taken with a severe attack of bronchitis. The remedies ordinarily used in such cases failed to give ordinarily used in such cases railed to give me relief. Almost in despair of ever finding anything to cure me, I bought a bottle of Aver's Cherry Pectoral, and was helped from the first dose. I had not finished one bottle before the disease left me, and my throat and lungs were as sound as ever." Geo. B. Hunter, Altoona, Pa.
